One of God's Good Men . . .

We can say as we mourn his passing that Rt. Rev. Emil Marie Bunoz, O.M.I., was one of God's grand and good gentlemen. As he moves on in the fullness of years, after a long life filled with fine and useful acts, to the reward which is promised to all true Christians, we join with the citizens of Prince Rupert and the people of the whole of northern British Columbia who these nearly fifty years were his very good friends and deep admirers in paying our word of tribute.

This past year or so while the onset of age kept him largely confined although far from inactive in the continued exercise of his ecclesiastical administration, we missed his robust figure, his resonant voice and his cheery chuckle as he passed along the street among his friends who were unbowed by creed or domination. Now he is gone and we grieve that in this life he is with us no more.

It is believed that the good a man has done, the cheer he has spread, the inspiration and counsel he has given live after. If these are a measure of the duration of his living spirit among those who remain, we know that this holy man shall stay in the memory and hearts of all who knew him as long as they shall live and that, if we are Christians and believe in the promises of the beyond, we shall meet once more together in a place which shall know no distinctions of race, state or creed.

If all Christians were as Christ-like as the pioneer ecclesiastical leader who has passed away, if all men exemplified Christianity in as broad sense as he did, we would find it easier to unite ourselves in the pursuit and practice of the precepts of God's Kingdom on earth in its fullest measure.

the support of Terrace electors on two grounds—his own qualifications to represent the people of the Skeena and his support of the Liberal administration. He stressed the point that it was the prime duty of a member to learn to carry out the views and wishes of his constituency rather than to force his views on them. Referring to the other candidates, Mr. Applewhite assured his audience that his campaign would be fought on policies and platforms, not on personalities.

Mr. Applewhite outlined his stand on the Japanese question. His consistent efforts would be to see that no Japanese return to the coastal area of B.C., and that, as soon as possible, all persons of the Japanese race be repatriated. He found it impossible to understand how the C.C.F. party, which claimed to champion the cause of the workers, could support the return of the Jap and give them the vote, thus aligning themselves with those unscrupulous employers who would like to use Jap labor to reduce wages and standards of living.

Mr. Applewhite attacked the C.C.F. as a party incapable of giving to Canada democratic and responsible government, citing various recent incidents in which the C.C.F. party machine had controlled the actions of members of parliament and candidates. He claimed that this machine, if it could contract one member, could contract them all and that the election of a C.C.F. government would result in giving to Canada a system under which the prime minister and his cabinet would be entirely controlled by and responsible to an executive committee which was not elected by the people of Canada nor responsible to anyone. This, he claimed, is exactly the system of government imposed upon Germany by the National Socialists. The candidate urged his audience not to let Canada's service men and women return to a country sold out to a "made-in-Germany totalitarianism."

Mr. Applewhite outlined the program of veterans' re-establishment which is admittedly the most comprehensive and generous in the world. He pointed out that this program is in effect, not a mere promise, and gives the veteran all those things which opposition parties are offering him. He urged that the party which put the legislation into effect be returned to carry it out instead of allowing inexperienced and visionary parties to take office and wreck the good work already done.

COMMITTED TO LOCAL PROJECTS

In matters of local interest Mr. Applewhite assured his audience of his consistent interest and work for the improvement and maintenance of the Skeena Highway and also the utilization of the Terrace Military Hospital. He stated that it was a foregone conclusion that contributory old age pension would shortly be enforced in Canada and, in the meantime, he supported a minimum pension of $50 per month at 65 for men and $60 for women—also minimum pensions of $50 per month for all blind persons irrespective of age.

Mr. Applewhite outlined Canada's war effort which, man for man and dollar for dollar, was the greatest proportionate contribution to the war effort of the United Nations made by any country in the world. For this, he said, the Liberal administration received an overwhelming mandate in 1940 and, on the strength of this accomplishment alone, the Liberals were fully entitled to ask for a renewal of the mandate. "But," said he, "we did not stop at the war effort. During the same five years, the most comprehensive program of social legislation that the country has ever seen has been enacted." He briefly outlined such enactments as the Family Allowances Act, the National Housing Act, Unemployment Insurance, and the Veterans' Re-establishment Act. Referring to post-war problems, he referred to the Bank of Industrial Relations, foreign credits insurance, and legislation to put a floor under farm and fisheries prices. All these, he pointed out, were not promises but actual accomplishments and the electors would decide on June 11 whether Canada should have a government which would carry out or wreck this program of social and constructive legislation.

Turning to international affairs, the speaker said that, not only was the security of nations indivisible and that, in the interests of Canada and of the world as a whole, it was essential that a permanent, lasting and working organization for international co-operation be established. Canada could only contribute towards the successful formation of such an organization if she is represented by the only capable and experienced men the country had—the present Liberal government.

CROSS IS ONLY BALLOT SYMBOL

OTTAWA, June 4.—Little matter of picking a cross beside the name of chosen candidate seems to be a little chore to many people. Judging from past performances as many as 55,000 Canadian voters may bungle the job in June 11 election.

A ballot is spoiled if it is marked for more than one candidate in a single-member electoral district; if it is marked with a colored pencil; if the elector made any mark on the ballot which it could afterwards be identified, or if it is marked any symbol but a cross.

In the 1940 election 22,273 voters lost their votes when they failed to mark their ballots properly and, as the total vote has been increasing ever since, more spoiled ballots may be expected in this election.

The following figures, supplied by Jules Castonguay, electoral officer for Canada, show the total valid vote and the number of spoiled ballots in the last three elections:

1925	3,168,417	18,000
1926	3,273,962	18,000
1930	3,992,481	18,000

AMUSED

Editor, Daily News:
It surely amuses me to read these advertisements put out by the Public Informational Association, against the C.C.F.

If the rightists are so concerned about preserving the democratic way of life, why hadn't they done so decades past by having taken the initiative to provide the people with a more abundant material life which they very justly deserve and want.

The fact of the matter is, that the old order has been "weighed in the balance and found wanting."

Everyone, of course, admits that social progress has been made but let's not stop here. Let us go on. There is much ground to be covered yet and there are fairer horizons ahead.

He peered into the Unknown

Galileo, (1564-1642) invented an improved telescope, carried on research in magnetism and gravitation, discovered the principle of the pendulum. Contrary to previous teaching, he maintained that bodies of different weights fall with the same velocity. When challenged to prove this theory, he dropped a ten-pound shot and a one-pound shot from the top of the Leaning Tower of Pisa. To the amazement of the University students and faculty gathered to see the experiment, both weights reached the ground at the same time.

In our own day, as in Galileo's time, research has opened the door to discoveries which have had far-reaching results.

In 1921, sales of Canadian Nickel were discouraging. Then the Nickel industry intensified its research endeavours. Year after year new ways were sought in which industry could use Nickel to make better products.

Sales of Canadian Nickel began to increase. They doubled . . . and trebled. Mines were enlarged. New plants were built. More men were employed. Great benefits came to Canada.

In the years after the war, Nickel research laboratories will push on their search for new uses for Nickel.

The information collected by International Nickel through years of metal research is available at all times to Canadian engineers, designers and metallurgists who need better materials for better products.

Thus will science and industry, working together, build a wider use of Canadian Nickel so that still more benefits will come to Canada.
