Alaska Welterweight Champ Has Been Inspiration to Local Boys

Corporal Ray Smith, Alaska welterweight champion, will be leaving Prince Rupert tomorrow morning to take up a United States Army assignment in the Seattle area. During his stay here, this young Californian has proved to be an inspiration to several of the pugilistically inclined Prince Rupert youngsters and his co-operation in coaching Canadian military personnel for various tournaments was out-

Boxing fans of the Pacific Northwest first took note of the 24 year old scrapper from San Francisco when at Ketchikan he left-hooked himself into a second round knockout over the Coast Guard middleweight champion, Red Knox, in July ■ 1944. Two days later the boxing fans of Prince Rupert watched that same left-hook blast the way into an eight-round decision over Pte. Tommy Burns, popular Canadian welterweight con-

Later that year, fight promoter Harold Blanton of Ketchikan arranged a match between Smith and Billy McCann, the Alaska welterweight champ. Ray captured the crown in this match and successfully defended against McCann in a return engagement on Acropolis Hill. Since that time, as boxing coach of the Prince Rupert Sub-Port of Embarkation, he has played a great part in training fighters and organizing boxing shows, the most recent being the Northwest Service Command tournament held here last April.

Corporal Smith, a booster for Prince Rupert and the Pacific Northwest, will drive from Prince Rupert over the Skeena Highway to Prince George and thence to Seattle. He is accompanied by his wife. Upon discharge from the Army, he plans to reside in Ketchikan where he will direct the city's youth athletic and recreational program.

When, as now seems likely, the Chicago Cubs swing into World Series competition, Amrican League fans are going to have something to marve about when they see Charli Grimm's outfield of Bill Nicholson, Andy Pafko and Harry (Peanuts) Lowery in action. Probably more so than a wellbalanced and fast infield, that trio of fly-chasers is more responsible for the Cubs' pennant drive than any other single fachad good pitching, in fact have had the best pitching staff in the league with such a first line as Claude Passeau, Hank Wyse, Hank Borowy, Ray Prim and Paul Derringer, and with Paul clined to leniency because Erickson, Hy Vandenberg, Bob Moorehead and Johnson were Chipman, Lon Warnecke and Ray Starr to handle not only relief duties but an occasional starting assignment.

But Charlie Grimm places lot of emphasis on his outfield. He rates those three ahead of the prosecution was conducted the great Cub outfield of 1939-Riggs, Stephenson, Kiki Cuyler and Hank Wilson-on the defensive side. Unusual Procedure Resorted to At Assize Court Here

John Moorehead and Louis Johnson, charged jointly with assaulting Robert Morison and Archie Hedstrom, each received six months on each of two charges from Mr. Justice Coady following jury conviction at the Assizes here. The sentences are to run concurrently.

The jury found that the two men had assaulted Morison and tor. True, the Chicagoans have 24, using broken beer glasses for weapons. Morison received severe cuts on his face and Hedstron received lesser injuries.

In passing sentence Mr. Justice Coady said that he was inworking men with families and could not be classed as criminals. Prescribed sentences for such offences are three years in penitentiary, Mr. Justice Coady said.

Moorehead and Johnson were defended by T. W. Brown while by W. O. Fulton.

When the jury declared its verdict of guilty, Defence Counsel Brown asked that each member of the jury declare his individual decision before the
