Terrace Hospital Ideal Site

Announcement from the provincial department of public works at Victoria that tenders are being called, bids to be in by July 20, for the construction of a 100-bed hospital to be the home for aged at Essondale reminds us again of the extensive and splendid hospital buildings at Terrace which were recently vacated by the Department of National Defence and which still offer an ideal site for some sort of public institution. Not only is there the big ranging hospital building at Terrace but there is also the Nurses' Home building which is commodious and finely enough appointed itself to house an institution of substantial capacity.

Permanent military hospital, sanitarium, home for the aged—the buildings at Terrace could be admirably used for any of these purposes. The location, high on a bench, overlooking a landscape of great expanse and beauty, is unexcelled.

No doubt, the Terrace buildings will be sooner or later put to good use.

Far East Roundup . . .

With the battle for Okinawa now over, Japan is directing the attention of her people more and more towards the probability of the invasion of the Homeland. One means of concentrating Japanese public attention upon the likelihood of an invasion is the publicity now being given to the transfer of Japanese industry to the mainland of Asia; what in fact is happening in this sphere is probably mainly the acceleration of a process which has been noticed for some time, namely the development of finishing plants near the sources of raw material in Manchuria and Korea. In addition, some heavy plants are already feeling the shortage of supplies being moved from Japan to the mainland. There is certainly every incentive for such acceleration both in the heavy bombing attacks upon the Home Islands, which have suffered more severely than ever in the last week and in the growing difficulties of transport between the mainland and Japan.

There is certainly no alternative scene of hope and success to offer the Japanese people in the news from the Netherlands East Indies. There the Australian landing at the great oil town of Balikpapan opens a new scene of operations in the southeast of the great island. The Japanese, who had long expected this attack, made a powerful effort to contain the bridgehead but failed. Meanwhile, far to the north operations in British Borneo progress well. Captures of oil centres there, together with those which must soon fall into Allied hands in the Balikpapan area, won't give us all the oil in Borneo. But they will leave only those of less importance in Japanese hands.

In Burma, the monsoon still dominates the operations, and aided by it the enemy is trying to establish a coherent defence line covering approaches to Siam and Indo-China in the Sittang Valley and the Shan Hills. Japan's territories in South-east Asia must now be defended with resources already there. The last big reinforcement in men was pushed through the corridor in south-west China early in the year, and shipping from Canton must now be difficult. The corridor through China has now been given up west of Liuchow and only in the area of the main north-south railway, giving highly important communications with Canton, are the Japanese still extending their holdings.

"How many operations do you get on a gallon, doc?"

WARTIME RAVAGES TO CARS SHOWN IN RECENT POLICE BRAKE CHECK

What the war has done to Prince Rupert's vaillant brigade of civilian motor vehicles really shouldn't happen to a Red River cart.

Carrying on year after wartime year with little but a spirit of patriotism to keep them going, they have arrived at a state where more than 20 per cent of them are bouncing along with defective brakes.

This inevitable sign of deterioration in the veteran jalopies, most of which would normally have been scrapped years ago had not the presumably late Hitler got out of hand, was brought to light by a recent brake check by city police. What the police might have found had they taken a garageman's interest in the cars' innards must remain decently veiled.

Motorists rightly feel that the condition of old Betsy's cylinder walls and transmission are intimate matters to be discussed only with the garageman.

However, the matter of brakes is a concern of public safety, and during their recent check, the police kept records. "You're only a foot from trouble," they admonished those whom they checked.

The check-up, they say, was not carried on indiscriminately. They did not pounce on any and every handy motorist and force him to prove that his brakes would halt old Bess within a reasonable margin of safety. Actually, it was only such cars that had already fallen foul of the law that were checked. Any motorist who had driven blithely through a stop sign was asked to prove that he would have been able to stop if he had desired.

TERRACE

John De Kergommeaux made an emergency trip to Prince Rupert Wednesday to take the Bush baby to Prince Rupert General Hospital.

Sgt. Major A. E. Johnston arrived Friday night to spend the week-end with his family.

Mrs. Jones, wife of "Blondie" Jones, returned home after spending some time in Prince Rupert General Hospital where she underwent an operation.

Paul Oberjera returned to Prince Rupert Wednesday evening after holidaying with his family here.

Miss Delphine Johnston is spending some time in Port Edward with a friend, Yvonne Eyford. She left Terrace with her father, Sgt. Major Johnston, on Sunday's train.

G. L. Brooks held a dance Friday night. It was much enjoyed by all present.

The blueberries are ripe now and quite a few pickers have been to the woods picking.

George Jones, brother of Mrs. Hulton, is here for a month's visit. His home is in Regina.

A ball game was held Sunday between Terrace and the R.C. A.F. Terrace civilian team winning by a score of 5-4.

As we have said, about 20 per cent had faulty brakes.

Of the 660 cars and trucks were tested. Of these, 17 did not come up to standard. However, many were checked by police at outside points and were not included in the city police total.

"Only a foot from trouble!" a motorist marvelled. "Think of it." "Seventeen cars?" He replied. "Why, then, we are 17 feet from trouble."

SERGEANTS' CLUB IS SMART PLACE

Last night the American Sergeants' Club on Acropolis Hill reopened with an informal dancing party after having been closed for almost three weeks while the club was being re-decorated. More than two hundred guests attended the opening.

With its soft lighting, walls of Natucket-blue and ivory ceilings, the club, furnished with deep maroon chesterfields and mahogany-stained coffee tables, presented a smart night club atmosphere. From a luxuriously draped, elevated bandstand, the Sophisticates, under the direction of Sgt. John Stroessler, provided the music for dancing and listening pleasure.

Among the guests of honor present were Colonel J. H. Melton, Major J. H. Walters, Major J. J. Hogan, Major L. W. Beck, Captain G. H. Holmes, Captain Raymond Fry, Lt. H. G. Lamphere, and Lt. J. J. O'Brien. Receiving the guests were S/Sgt. Phil Cretella, president of the club, and M/Sgt. Thomas McCurdy, Port Sergeant-Major.

IS NOT CANDIDATE

Editor, Daily News:

It has been brought to my attention that it is rumored around town that I am a candidate in the coming city by-election. I would like to state that this is not true and my name will not be on the ballot papers on Thursday.

Pat Forman, who is the nominee of Labor in this by-election, in my opinion, is well qualified to give the City efficient service and I have no hesitation in recommending the electors to vote for Peter Forman.

WINDFALLS are not inevitable!

To city dwellers, a "windfall" usually means some good luck. To fruit-growers and farmers, though, it means good fruit spoiled by falling from the trees before picking-time.

"WINDFALLS" — the fruit that falls from the trees before it is ripe—were thought by farmers to be an inevitable loss. But — chemists thought they could do something about it.

And they did . . . they developed a bormone spray that actually prevents pre-harvest drop, enables the fruit to develop fully, to take on a more attractive colour. It also extends the picking season, which is really something when labour is scarce.

The benefit is to the consumer—as well as to the farmer. PARMONE — for this is the name of this new fruit fixative — has solved a major problem of fruit culture just as so many other products of chemistry have solved other problems for agriculture and industry. Chemistry hates waste!

To the Electors of Prince Rupert:

Here are a few of the many reasons why we solicit your support of the candidacy of

for Alderman on Election Day, July 12

He has had the business experience qualifying him for the office—17 years of which as Fur Trade Post manager with the Hudson's Bay Company.

He is actively identified as a leader in the Youth movement in our City which is sorely in need of supporters such as "Pat."

He will boost for increased dock facilities and firmly believes that an airport must be one of our prime essentials for development of world trade.

WE BELIEVE HE DESERVES YOUR CONFIDENCE
