"MARRIAGE BUREAU" UNITING MEN AND OPPORTUNITIES IS PLANNED

New business opportunities exist in Prince Rupert, but often they are not capitalized upon because the opportunities and the men who might fulfil them have not been brought together. Convinced that such a situation is prevalent in Prince Rupert, a move is under way here by a group of patriotic business men to create a liaison between opportunities which would be going begging and men who might be blindly seeking a chance to sink their work and capital into something substantial for the future. Actually, they plan to form a "matrimonial bureau" where ambitious men can be united with existing opportunities for the benefit of everybody.

While the plan is still in its formative stage, its supporters have made some concrete advances individually, believing that after they are organized they can achieve results which will be of even more substantial benefit to the city by starting Meantime, conference chairman L. B. Pearson, Canada's ambassador to the United States, has announced that Soviet Russia will not at this time sign the F.A.O. constitution or become a full member of the organization. Nevertheless, the Soviet Union will assist in the organization's aims and efforts.

Mr. Pearson said the Russian delegates explained to him that, although Russia endorses the idea of international co-operation for the improvement of agricultural production and the bettering of the food situation of the United Nations, she, nevertheless, feels the organizational form of F.A.O. requires more study. The Russians explained further that it has also become necessary for the Soviet Union to consult on these questions with those Soviet states which are large producers of agricultural products and agricultural raw materials.

Former Prime Minister Churchill expressed the hope that the talks would not be limited to one particular topic, but that they would range over everything that would lead to good relations between Britain and the United States.
