

WAS HAPPY IN RUPERT

Rev. J. H. Myrswang Has Affection for City—Roosevelt Death Heavy Blow

"Were it not for family reasons I would never have left Prince Rupert and I would be happy enough to return here to spend the rest of my days," said Rev. J. H. Myrswang who left last night on his return to Poughbo, Washington, after having been here to take part in special mortgage burning services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of which he was the former pastor. The years he spent here were very happy ones, he says. However, he and his family are now well established and contented in the parish of Poughbo, across Puget Sound from Seattle.

Mr. Myrswang told of the profound shock which the recent death of President Roosevelt caused. "He was a greatly loved man, having won his way into the hearts and homes of all the people. His loss for the time seems almost irreparable. There appears to be no leader in the meantime to take his place."

Sergeant-Major Morrison Home

Friends in the city and district will be interested to hear that Sergeant-Major Donald Morrison, brother of Iain Morrison and brother-in-law of Angus Currie, both well known Skeena River cannerymen, recently returned to Canada on rotation leave after five years' service overseas including Dieppe and the Sicilian and Italian campaigns. He went overseas in 1939 with the Scaforth's of Vancouver and was later drafted to the Calgary Regiment, a tank unit. He is at present engaged in special campaigning in support of the Eighth Victory Loan in the East but is hoping to return overseas or else be sent to the Pacific Coast. Sergeant-Major Morrison, before the war, was engaged in mining in the district—at one time at Anxox and later at Taku.

MASSETT IS BUSY

Clam Cannery Operating—New Wharf Building—Sawmill and Boatbuilding

Masset is having a busy spring this year even if it is a backward one from the weather standpoint, it is reported by Jesse Bridden, one of its best known citizens, who has been spending a few days in the city. The clam cannery, co-operatively operated, started packing in March, the earliest date yet, with a view to getting up as large a pack as possible before the fishing season started but unfavorable weather has hampered clam digging operations and the pack so far has amounted to only about 1000 cases. The co-operative is becoming an increasingly important factor in the community of Massett and now has two stores there under the management of George Hoey, formerly of Prince Rupert—one at old Massett and one at new Massett. The new Massett store was formerly that of Kirnes and Linder.

Campbell Bros., the contractors, are now well under way with the building of the new wharf at New Massett which for two years has been without one. The new wharf project, including approach, two floats and breakwater, is costing upwards of $65,000 and is to be completed in July.

David Rutten, Walter Feyer and Kurt Linder are running the sawmill at Delkatka Inlet which was formerly operated by Arthur Robertson.

Alex Wylie and son, who moved there not long ago from Prince Rupert, are operating their boat-building plant there and have several gillnetters on the contract list. Mr. Wylie formerly built boats at Seal Cove and until recently was with the local dry dock.

Mr. Bridden, who has been visiting while here with his son, Staff Sergeant Bridden, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, reports that the people of Massett are quite dissatisfied with the steamship service which they are at present getting. What they want is a weekly service from Prince Rupert so arranged that it would permit of more expeditious trading with this city. The way things are now there is only a boat every ten days which is entirely unsatisfactory for the purposes of passengers, freight and mail alike.

LOVE, FEAR IN PICTURE

"The Unseen," With Joel McCrea, Gail Russell and Herbert Marshall, Coming

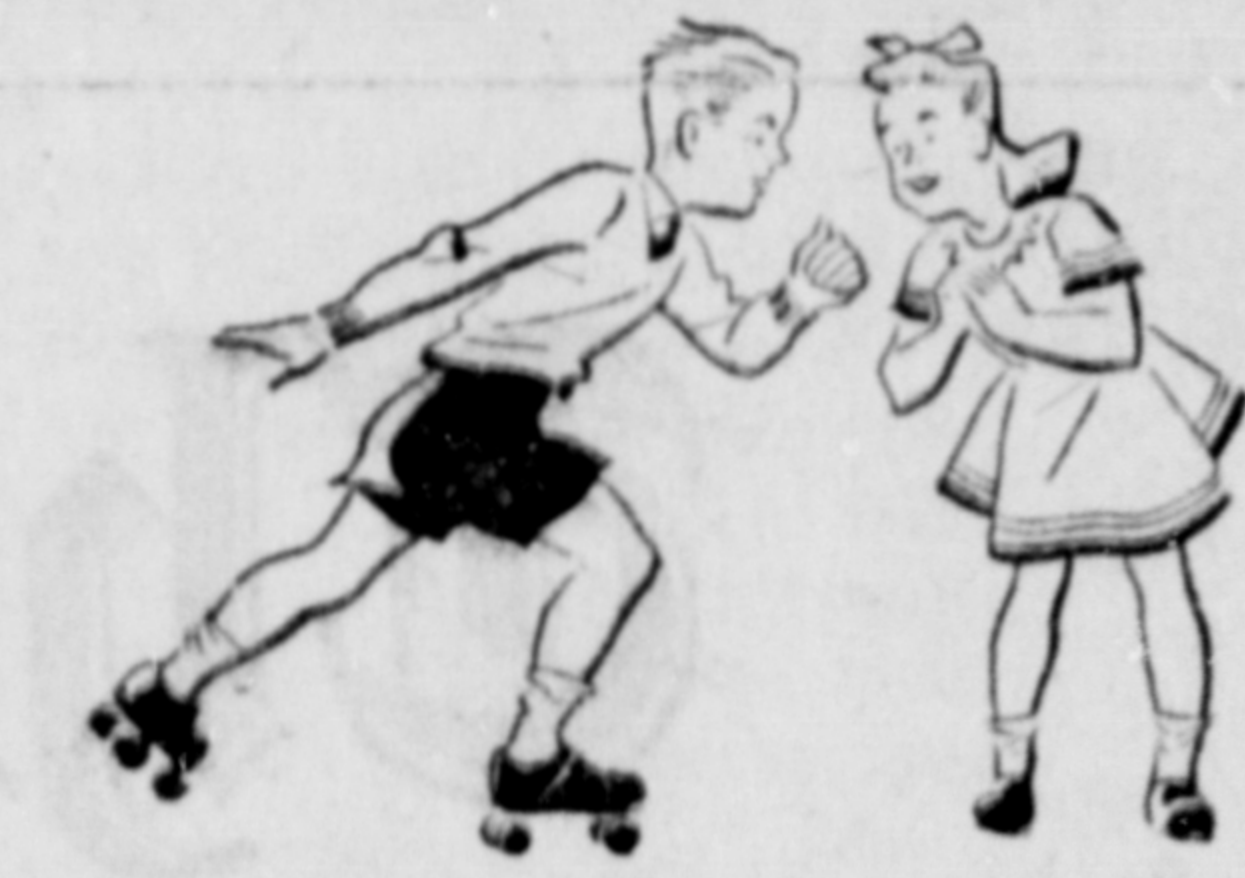

Based on the most powerful of all human emotions, fear "The Unseen," coming to the Capitol Theatre this Wednesday and Thursday, is a psychological murder mystery. The chief characters are a widower, his two young children, the family doctor and a woman well past the first bloom of her youth. The action of the story takes place in the prosperous residential area of a New England town. Joel McCrea plays the widower and Gail Russell is the governess with whom he falls in love. The love interest is overshadowed by the mystery of a couple of murders.

The mystery is climaxed by a sequence where Joel and Gail have reached the point of actually suspecting each other, emotional relief coming, however, in a romantic manner.

Herbert Marshall plays the masculine heavy in the picture. A herpetologist is one who studies reptiles.

Long life... low upkeep... the Ford V-8 Engine

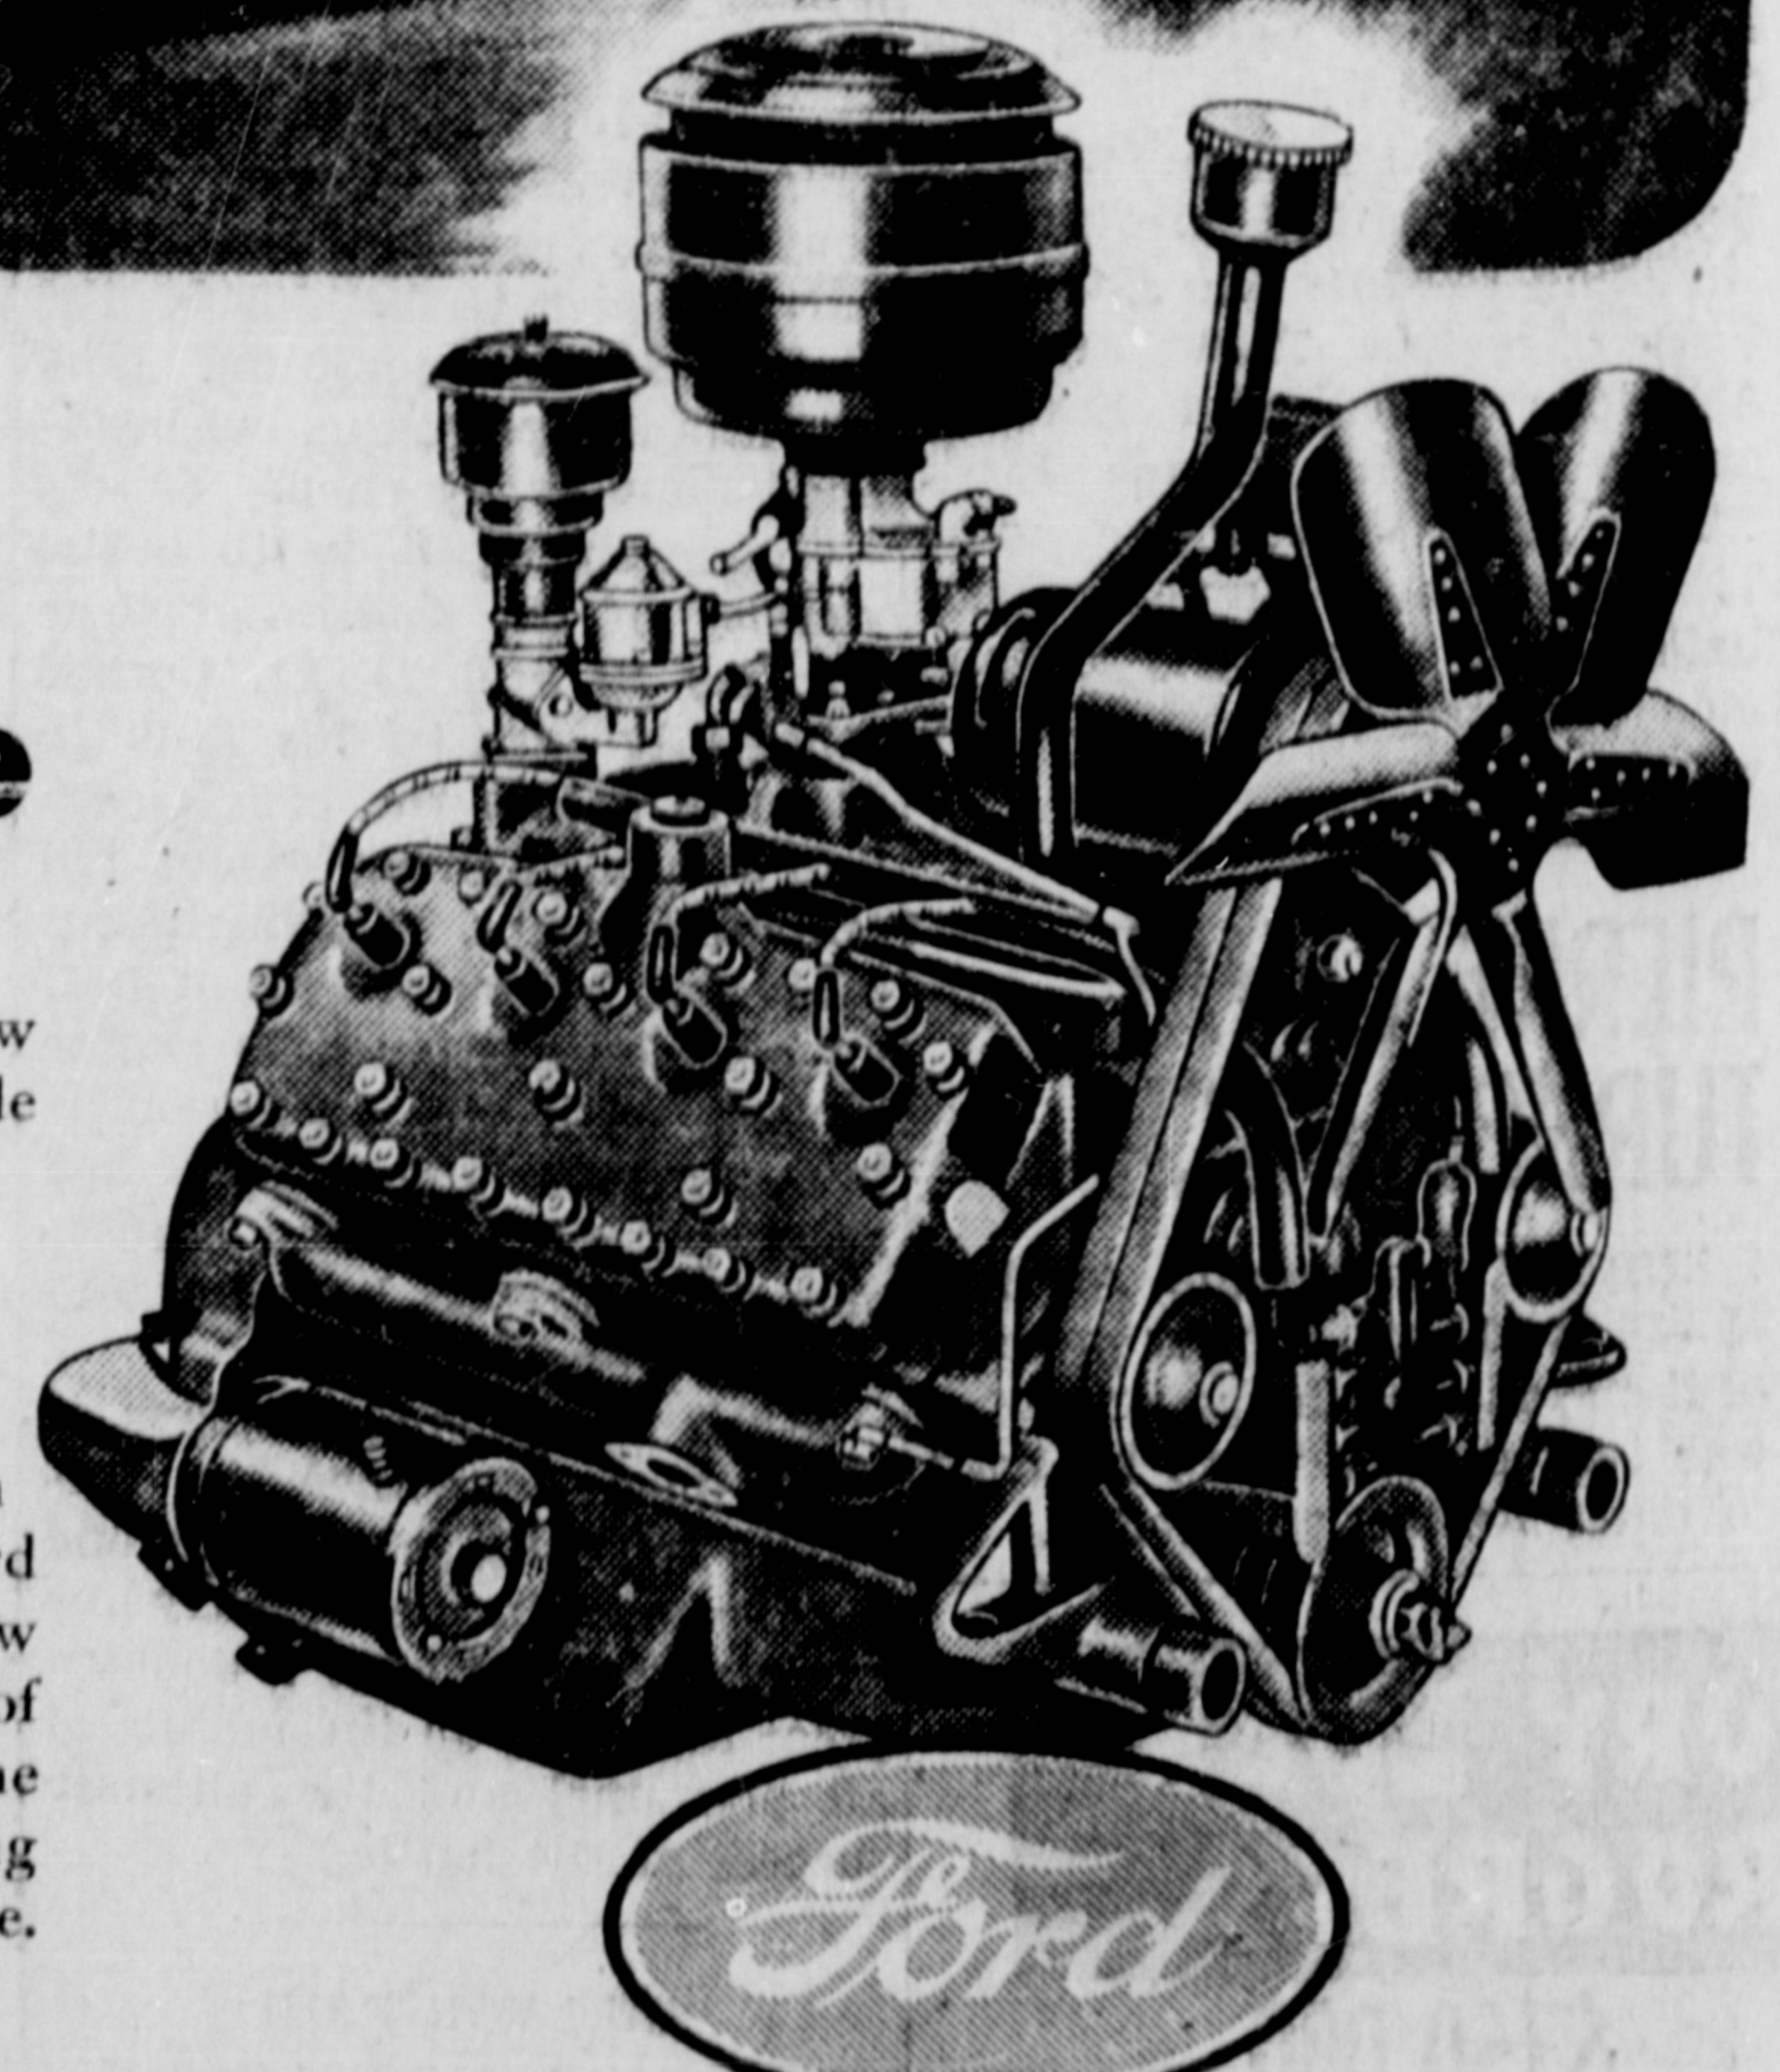

ALL THE FORDS on the road today are growing old—there have been no new ones made since 1942. The amazing thing to owners is how well they've stood up.

In many cases they haven't had the best of care, for many of the skilled mechanics who formerly tuned them up regularly are in the armed forces, and Ford dealers must give priority to the maintenance and servicing of essential transport.

The way Ford cars have kept on doing their duty during the war years speaks well for the way the Ford V-8 engine is engineered and built. Its rugged simplicity has meant low upkeep cost. Its fuel economy has made thousands of Canadians thankful they owned a Ford when the war came on.

Will the post-war Ford be powered with the same V-8 engine? Yes, a V-8 with all the battle-tested refinements resulting from the war years. Continuously since 1942 Ford of Canada engineers have developed new refinements to enhance the performance of the V-8 engine in the war zones. In the post-war models all these engineering advancements will be offered to you at once.
