Archdeacon Hodson, in his elect had served well for many years, meriting the high honor imposed upon him by the vote of the diocese and the commission of Christ to assume the new and higher service and responsibilities implied in chief pastorship of a diocese.

The preacher spoke of the origin and history of the Christion ministry since the time of Christ. The essential element always to be remembered was that the work of the ministry was directly on behalf of Christ. Today the ministry faced an extremely difficult task in the effort to arrest the drift toward carelessness and indifference which seemed to have come over the whole church.

As ambassador of Jesus and chief shepherd of the flock, the bishop must needs be imbued with sympathetic understanding and possessed of wisdom and patience and, finally, he must at all times have the spirit, inspiration and power of God to measure up to the great demands the would be made upon him.
