PICNICKED NEAR RAILWAY TRACK IN DERAILMENT

To become involved in a train wreck on the Yukon & White Pass Route between Skagway and Whitehorse was the experience of Mrs. Annette Woods, well-known local business woman, who returned to the city a few days ago from a trip to Whitehorse, where she has a branch store.

The trouble occurred eight miles beyond Bennett when six exceptionally heavily laden flat cars of the mixed train on which Mrs. Stone and 61 other passengers were travelling sank into a soft spot on the roadbed. Fortunately, there were no casualties although it took some time to get the track back in shape for traffic again and extra equipment had to be sent out to the scene so the passengers could transfer and complete their journey.

The experience was not an altogether unpleasant one for the passengers who had to get out and spent three hours "picnicking" alongside the track. "It was fun sitting out there in the boiling sunshine. We were all like one big happy family," reminisces Mrs. Woods.
