

Another Election

The provincial general election date has been set for October 25. Soon we will be in the throes of another political campaign, the second

As we have said so often in the past as an election campaign opens, it is to be hoped that nothing will be said or done to engender ill-feeling or to damage our esprit de corps and mutual co-operation as the people of a community with common ge interests.

Just now there is developing in Prince Rupert a healthy tendency toward getting together to meet serious problems affecting the future welfare of the district. There has been an inclination in that movement to sink politcial interest and feeling.

Even if an election is coming and we may have a contest along theoretical political lines, there would appear to be no real reason why, exercising the democratic privileges of expressing our views and casting our ballots, we should become bad personal friends about it.

The recent federal election in Prince Rupert was an example where friendly disagreements had no serious after-effects. We are quite confident that the coming provincial contest will be along equally exemplary lines. The Daily News will do its best to assist in making it such.

offers to pave it for them. And rawness. that's going to come, too."

Solicitude of the provincial government in taking over the series of small, privatelyowned power plants serving the towns is generally commenced by most of the people, who visualize unfailing electricity carried by cross-country power lines in place of gasoline plants now in use. cific Great Eastern Railway. Living by those rivers they daily see thousands of potential horsepower of hydroelectric energy flowing past their doors and it builds up dreams of bastion-like powerhouses backed by artificial lakes which will fill the canyon-like river beds.
