'Y' DOINGS

By MARGARET WOODWARD

James K. Murdoch K.C., chairman of the war services committee, speaking at a Y.M.C.A. local council luncheon recently, pointed out that there were 1842 full time members of the staff of the Y.M.C.A. working in the interests of Canada's armed forces at home and overseas. Of this number 420 are supervisors, 882 are civilian employees, 540 are military assistants, in addition to 14,025 volunteers who serve under the Red Triangle. Mr. Murdoch went on to say that the "Y.M.C.A. operated 17 hostels, 93 town centres, 1706 recreational centres and served men at 506 outposts both at home and overseas. Among the most recent developments was a new building costing over $200,000 recently opened in Prince Rupert."

The Friday night sing song drew a crowd to the lounge last night when Lois Vaughan again presided at the piano.
