

Encouraging Industry Here . . .

The Department of Trade and Industry of the provincial government, according to press reports, is intending to set up committees in various regions of the province with a view to industrial development in those regions. In this connection it is understood that a representative of the department will soon be in Prince Rupert. No doubt, the local postwar reconstruction organization will be in a position to co-operate with the departmental representative when he arrives.

Certainly, the Prince Rupert region is one that should be most keenly interested in post-war industrial development with a view to filling the gap caused by the curtailment of war activities which gave us so much prosperity during the past few

Government departments may show all the interest in the world in communities but if there is not the fullest of local co-operation on the part of those communities themselves not much can be expected. The war recession here in Prince Rupert might be quite possibly stemmed to considerable extent by the enterprise of the citizens themselves. It is high time to bestir ourselves.

A Labor Leader Speaks . . .

In view of the unrest in labor circles throughout Canada and the consequent problems and difficulties confronting industrial leaders and the government, an editorial from a recent issue of the Labor Leader, published at Toronto in the interests of international trades unionism, is interesting. The editor is H. G. Fester, life-long member of the American Federation of Labor, former secretary of the Trades and Labor Council of Hamilton, who writes as follows under the heading: "The Picnic Is Over—Now Down to Brass Tacks":

"The greatest war the world has ever witnessed has finally come to an end. Fascism has gone down in a welter of hatred and an ocean of blood. The last pages of its foul smelling history are now reaping in full measure the whirlwind they have sown. "Now for the period of reconstruction. This will be an era of hard work for all concerned, and whether the job be done by private enterprise, or by the State, the task will try men's souls to the breaking point. It will call for the best in all of us, and at modest returns for both labor and capital. For it must be kept in mind that production for the next few years, will be largely in the form of replacement of the things destroyed, and the substitution of the machinery of peace for the machinery of war. This means that the era of high wages and high profits, is at an end for a long time to come. Only high taxes will remain.

"For the past six years we have lived luxuriously at the expense of those who died. We have borrowed from Peter to pay Paul. The time has arrived to take stock, so that we may see just what is before us.

"Labor must adjust itself to peace-time conditions. Some of its present efforts to shorten hours and inflate wages, have no sound economic basis. Such efforts can only serve to cripple the efforts of those who are seeking to assure Canada's place in the sum total of the world's available trade.

"The war is over, boys and girls, and we must now give some thought to paying for it. This will be no light task. It will test the genius of labor, capital and management to the utmost. It will mean hard work for
