Post-war Problems Here . . .

With the fighting over in Europe and indications that a general demobilization of Canadian forces will very soon be under way, the problems of post-war rehabilitation are falling suddenly and fully upon us. It is the eleventh hour for planning on how we are to receive our thousands of homecoming heroes and how we are to provide for them. The situation which is about to arise is one that will directly affect us all. It will be a situation in the meeting of which we will all have to assume a share of responsibility and in which we will all have to be ready to give and take.

Happily, our authorities have already formulated some definite plans. In the execution of those plans, we will have to be prepared to fall willingly in line and co-operate in the bringing about of the new order of peace—co-operate as wholeheartedly and as spontaneously as we have done in war. For many the problems of peace may prove even more trying and arduous as have those of peace.

The conclusion of war, and the whole war is rapidly coming to an end, even though we still have our enemy across the Pacific to dispose of, will present conditions, particularly of the economic and social type, that will be as difficult as the conditions imposed by war.

It will be few people for whom war's end will not mean a readjustment in the various ways of living. The gearing down from the habits and ways that some have acquired as a result of the war many necessitate some drastic changes.

As we celebrate our victories, we might well be sobered by the thought that there may still be difficult days ahead.

TEEN AGE CLUB

Editor, Daily News:
Followers Today, Leaders Tomorrow—

In those four words you have the reason for the need of a club that would be in the interest of the 'teen agers.

It cannot be denied that this portion of the community is sadly lacking an organization which would not only add to their recreation but also towards the knowledge, training and experience needed by Canada's future citizens and leaders.

We all know that Canada is at this time one of the greatest countries in the world for there are more opportunities ahead of us than any other nation and we have only touched a very small part of our natural resources. To achieve the position that could be ours, that is "The Greatest Country in the World," we must have good leaders.

These leaders will come from the group we now refer to as "the teen agers."

As yet, there has been very little done in this community for the development of future leadership but there is now a movement under way called "The Prince Rupert Teen Age Club" that has taken a step in this direction. Not only would this organization be of help in developing future leaders but it would also assist in keeping our young people off the streets by providing for them recreational facilities that would be to the liking of all.

Ladies and gentlemen, some time in the near future your help will be asked to help set up this club. "Do you think it is worth it? Do you think your children's future worth it? Please think it over. I thank you."

J. W. Scott, W. F. Stone, W. L. Armstrong, Peter Laskie and Arthur Brooksbank returned on Saturday night's train from Vanderhoof where they attended the Associated Boards of Trade conference as Prince Rupert delegates.

SOLDIER'S MEDAL IS AWARDED HERE

Sgt. Clifford Nevin's Action Prevented Serious Explosion

The Soldier's Medal has been awarded to Sgt. Clifford W. Nevin of the 654th Port Company, a unit which recently left Prince Rupert Sub-Port of Embarkation, for his actions in extinguishing a fire in a car of high explosive ammunition.

The official citation reads in part: "At Prince Rupert, B.C., Canada, on January 9, 1945, a fire broke out in a railway car containing 105-mm ammunition. The burning of the propelling charge of one round caused an explosion resulting in the fire spreading from the container to the wooden lining of the car. There was imminent danger of more violent explosions. Sgt. Nevin's first reaction was to evacuate all personnel from the car. With full realization of danger, he re-entered the car and, with a portable fire extinguisher, fought the flames until more effective fire-fighting equipment was brought to the scene and the fire extinguished."
