Dawn (ATLANTIC CHARTER)

When the war is over and battles cease, And the wings of war become doves of peace, When we take up our task and rebuild anew, Will the hopes and the dreams of the world come true?

Will the words of the 'Master,' by speech and pen, Proclaim, "Peace on earth, good will toward men!" Rendering thanks to the diety, Who has saved the world from iniquity.

In treasure and blood, in sweat and tears, Will we remember the years, The price that was paid to a world accursed, To bring to an end, the holocaust. And swear an oath, that never again, Will such horror occur, at the hands of men?

Will we strive together, with might and main To weld and strengthen the broken chain, And make of the world, a place secure, Where kindness, and love, and peace endure, Make of the earth, a bit of heaven, Where we can forgive, and be forgiven?

Keep green the memory, of those who lie, In their last long sleep, 'neath an alien sky. They have kept the faith, and the burning brand, Has been passed along, to another hand. Let us fan the flame, till it's clear and bright, And make of the darkness, a place of light! Be true to the trust of those who lie, In the bosom of immortality!

The burden is ours, and the way is long, Let us face it with confidence and be strong, Remove the fear from the hearts of men, That want and dependence will come again. Make of our country, a place where we Will be happy in social security.

That is the burden, and that is the task. The trumpet has sounded, the torch has been passed. "God bless our country!" "Let the bells ring." The cycle has ended, a new one begun Dawn is a breaking! The sun has arisen! "Guide us." "Our Father which art in Heaven '

LONDON, Oct. 1 (P)-Over-age British teachers who came back from retirement during the war are likely to have to carry on for some time although peace has come. An education official said that the rate at which the elderly teachers can be released depends entirely on the speed at which men can be returned from the forces.

PITCHBLENDE

Geophysicists Examine Ore Body Found In Northern Saskatchewan

REGINA, Oct. 1 (P) - In the mineral fields of Saskatchewan's far north lies a source of atomic energy so far undeveloped—an occurrence of pitchblende, the rare mineral from which uranium is obtained, discovered in 1935 in the area between Cornwall and Fishhook Bays, about five miles east of Goldfields.

Uranium is the key to atomic power. Without it there would Supervillain Returns to Screen have been no atomic bomb such as blasted and devastated Hiroshima and Nagasaki and brought the war with Japan to an abrupt end. In addition, it is probably the best tool for unlocking the secrets of power resources in other chemical elements.

> The pitchblende ore discovered the late Joseph Errington on the property of Mineral Belt Locators' Syndicate, of which he was manager. At the site only a small quantity was found, but there were strong indications, evident to mineralogists, that pitchblende ore was present in greater quantities in that area.

> No development has so far been undertaken, and the size of the pitchblende deposit is not yet known. During the war geophysical method for locating the ore was developed. Saskat fields area in an effort to deblende occurrences.

A federal geological survey party was dispatched to map the Lake Athabaska area. Geophysicists examined the pitchblende find during the summer, and it is understood the party now has reported its findings to Ottawa.

So far, however, the resources department here has received no word from Ottawa regarding the northland's pitchblende

The Official Timepiece of Pan American World Airways PRECISION SCORES AGAIN! - Travelling the skyways with famed Pan American Clipper pilots the Gruen Pan American was chosen as the official watch of Pan American Airways - the largest international air service in the world because it does tell time with precision accuracy.

These men fly by seconds - their timepieces must show where they are as precisely as the meridian crosses the sun. The Pan American is numbered for the 24 hours of the airworld day - in fact in every respect it's the thin, smart watch of the future - built to the same high standards that have made Gruen the Precision Watch since 1874. We are pleased to announce orders are now being accepted for civilian use.
