Hesitation in Spring

WE ARE CONCERNED about the scandalous behavior of April. All this display of airy caprice and gay uncertainty before a tired, grim world that has to make up its mind about German industry and the atomic bomb! All these freakish flutterings and wanton reversals and irresponsible crises of wind and sun and rain!

The world hangs in a delicate balance these days. It's bad enough to have the balance of power between East and West threatened, without having to face this other precarious balance between March and May, the blustering last words of winter and the warm reassurances of spring.

Robert Frost pointed up the problem nicely in his "Two Tramps in Mud Time" when he wrote of a typical instance:

The sun was warm but the wind was chill
You know how it is with an April day
When the sun's out and the wind is still,
You're one month on in the middle of May.
But if you so much as dare to speak,
A cloud comes over the sunlit arch,
A wind comes off a frozen peak,
And you're two months back in the middle of March.

Of course, the weather is not unlike the climate of public opinion, which seems to veer lightly between pessimism and optimism, with crisis blowing up as swiftly as April squalls and golden moments of hope breaking through suddenly to entice people to take off their coats and relax prematurely in the sun. There's not much logic to April and its tentative, unpredictable whims—but behind the uncertainty of transition is the irreversible logic of the advancing year.

COME TO CHURCH SERVICES

SATURDAY SERMON

MAKE ME CLEAN

(By REV. F. ANTROBUS, First Baptist Church)

"It is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me."

—Rom. 7:17.

"I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." —Gal. 2:20.

These two texts bear a similarity in form, and they do emphasize the fact that as a man is in his heart, so is he actually; for while man looks on the outward appearances, God looks upon the heart. But the character which the texts stand for are as far apart as possible.

Officer Honored By Vienna College

For his contribution to the reconstruction of Austria and the restarting of Austrian economy, Col. James R. Rundell, head of the United States Military Government's Economic Division in Vienna, has been awarded an honorary doctor's degree in economic science by the Vienna College of World Trade.

This is the third honorary degree to be awarded by the College of World Trade in 56 years since the institute's foundation.

REAL OLD CITY

Buenos Aires was founded as a city in 1580.

will have to carry a heavy load.

Dr. Winslow asked nurses to give attention as soon as possible, to study of degenerative diseases of old age, such as cancer and heart disease, and urged provision of facilities for chronic and convalescent disease treatment.

Miss J. B. Peters, B.C. Consultant in Tuberculosis Nursing, outlined development of mass X-ray service given through six stationary and mobile clinics, to the point where each B.C. citizen can have a tuberculosis examination at least every two years, and in some communities once a year.

She announced that mobile clinics put into operation a short while ago, are beginning to return to some rural areas a second time, and asked health unit personnel to see that "whole adult communities turn out for examinations." Each mobile clinic is able to handle 600 persons daily, she announced.

Though we may not throw off this bias to evil now, there is One, who if we yield completely to Him, allow Him to have His way with us, are fully obedient to Him, put Him first at all times, can rule over the evil for us. Our salvation through Jesus Christ provides not only forgiveness of sins, and the gift of eternal life, beginning now; but in that salvation, God has also made provision against the day by day domination of sin, giving us His Holy Spirit to rule over the sin that dwelleth in me, and so giving us the victory from day to day and enabling us to do His will.

Too many people today are living merely on the human plane, even as christians; they fought the good fight for a time, and not knowing the possibilities of the spiritual life, now seek forgiveness, but go on sinning in their human weakness because they believe it inevitable; and we certainly cannot win over evil unaided. Others are trying to follow the principles of Jesus, in order to be good. But we need the presence within of that gracious Holy Spirit, teaching, energizing, and conforming us to the 'image of God'; this is one of the 'mists' of the Christian life.

I was on the point of losing my temper, but was led to look up instead, and I realized the Saviour's presence, so calm, and sweet and strong. I felt led to say, 'Lord give me some of Thy patience, for mine is giving out.' At once there seemed to come into my heart that which I am sure made it possible for me to have stood twice as many children, and twice as much in attention, without losing myself. From that moment, I have always followed the same method. Nothing better could have been said. It works!

Stand on the docks and watch the sea gulls in flight. There is the downward pull of gravitation at work, but for every downward pull, there is the stroke of the living bird's wing on the elastic air; and this more than compensates for the downward pull. That stroke of course is due to the spirit of life which throbs in the breast of the bird. So Christ, through His Spirit is that life. The regularity, immediacy and quality of the Christ-life are more than sufficient to counteract the downward pull of sin. At the first slight suggestion of sin, Christ within resists it, so that we do not the things we otherwise might, nor do we fall into those sins of thought, word and deed which were once so natural to us. Christ gives us strength, and that is the thing we lack, after we have been given spiritual sight, to see our real condition, and know what the right thing is. The flesh fights against the Spirit, but the Spirit also fights against the flesh, and can overcome.

What christians need today are more daily conversations
