SHORT SPORT

The time-honored game of cricket gradually is becoming the "woe" sport of Britain. Last year nearly all first-class county clubs made appeals for financial help and then had trouble getting gear. This season many grounds were waterlogged and one team, Warwickshire, took over one floor of a department store to use as a practice pitch.

Cricket bats are plentiful this season, thanks to an easing of the quota by the Board of Trade, but there's a scarcity of oil needed to keep them in trim. Lined oil controlled by the ministry of food is scarce and expensive. Even at £200 ($800) a ton, sixpence (10 cents), worth would keep a bat sound for two or three seasons. Jack Hobbs, one-time great cricketer who operates a sporting goods store in London, says he has plenty of bats "but no oil for sale." Another sports dealer gives this sad news to cricketers: "I've had a few tins of oil—and house painters have been around trying to buy it up."

MUCH FOR LITTLE—Half a dozen carefully chosen annuals will make an amazing and long-continued show of bloom at a minimum of cost and effort. In fact one can develop quite a complete garden with annuals alone which is something tenants on a year's lease should remember.

In selecting, one should note the height of the plant, the time of flowering and, possibly, the color. And, of course, where one lives in the cooler sections of Canada it is also necessary to get hardy plants and early bloomers. To mention only a few—cosmos, marigolds, zinnias, petunias, portulaca, nicotine, spider plant, calendula, alyssum, stocks, etc., are easily grown almost anywhere in the Dominion. Some of the taller growing ones can be used in place of shrubs for background, with the little ones along the front of the beds for edging. In any good seed catalogue, heights of plants are always given.

Seeds should be started early and in finely prepared soil. Plants are transplanted to permanent quarters when they are well established with several sets of leaves. Ready started bedding plants can be bought from the seed store or greenhouse man. For husky growth, tall things like cosmos, gladiolus, dahlias, giant marigolds and zinnias should have about two feet each way—petunias and similar things need about a foot.

TENDER VEGETABLE SECRET—The real secret of tender vegetables is first, get them right out of your garden just before they go into the pot or salad and second, grow them quickly without any setbacks. The first point most people know, the second not so well, but it is just as important.

To get this quick, unchecked growth means planting at the proper time, not too early with tender things that frost or cold weather may check, and then they must be harvested when just right. Old gardeners push growth along quickly with plenty of cultivation, fertilizer, and water when necessary, and if possible. They also spread sowings out over at least several weeks so that young stuff is coming along continuously. Another trick they use is to plant several different types—an early maturing sort, a medium and a late. In the seed catalogue usually will be listed the number of days to maturity. Thus one can purchase, say, peas that will be ready for the table in fifty days, some in sixty and some in seventy. By using some of all these there will be a succession of good crops instead of a regular feast followed by a famine. Most experienced gardeners continue making sowings of carrots, beets, beans, lettuce and spinach from the time the ground is first ready up to mid-July.

PLANTING GROUPS—Most vegetables divide themselves into three main planting groups. In the first are the hardy sorts. These are planted just as soon as the soil can be prepared regardless of the weather ahead. They will stand a little frost, and for best results they must make their first growth while the weather is still cool and wet. In this class are peas, the first onions, carrots and beets, radish, spinach and lettuce.

Next there are the semi-hardy things like potatoes, the first corn, beans and cabbage. These will stand cool weather but very little frost. At the end of the line are very tender plants that can stand no frost at all such

From The Waterfront

Three steamers were in port yesterday, the Cassiar from Vancouver and Queen Charlotte Islands, the American freighter Sidney with salmon from Alaska, and the Prince Rupert with passengers and general cargo from Vancouver.

Daylight Saving in British Columbia becomes effective next Sunday but it does not sound so simple as that. Railways and shipping will have their own times and in Prince Rupert there will be some complications. Some steamers will be on daylight time and some on standard.

as melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, pumpkins. There is no object in planting these until both soil and air are warm.

on Target for '47

STAND back—take it all in—and make sure you don't miss a thing. For what we've pictured for you here is the whole Highway Hit Parade of 1947—wrapped up in one glamorous bundle.

Those long, flowing, follow-through fenders—there's a style note you'll see echoed in automotive fashions for a long time to come.

That generous beam amidships—there's the drivingroom you've been seeking, with legroom, headroom, elbowroom all around.

That broad deep bonnet spells power aplenty—eager, lively Fireball power from an engine that seems to stay forever young.

That hug-the-road look means steadiness; coil springs on all four wheels spell matchless, floating ride; wide-swinging doors open on interiors both handy and handsome in arrangement.

In a word—here's a car squarely on target, whether you go for style or size, performance or value. Here's Canada's most wanted car—and easily Canada's most sought-after buy.

So why let the crowd get ahead of you? Why wait—when waiting can only postpone delivery, not hasten it. Just remember that faint heart ne'er won a fair car like this—and get your order in!

The demand for new cars is still so great that it may be some time before you take the wheel of your new Buick. Make sure your present car keeps rolling. The better its condition, the safer you are...and the higher its potential trade-in value.
