AND TEXAS GET BRUNT

CANADIAN, Texas (CP)—One town of 5,426 persons was to large extent levelled by a sudden tornado which brought death to at least 109 persons and destruction last night to south central United States.

Telephone and telegraph lines being blown down made it difficult to obtain early estimates of what appeared to have been a heavy toll.

The devastating wind concentrated on the panhandle of Texas and northwestern Oklahoma. It ripped through five counties and played worst havoc in four towns. In addition to the dead, at least another thousand persons were believed injured in the wake of the sudden blast of wind.

Hardest hit community was Woodward, Oklahoma, where seventy-two persons are known to be dead. About one-third of the town was flattened by the Twenty persons are estimated dead at Glazier, a village of 200 population in Texas, and another twenty persons died at Higgins where at least 150 were injured. Rubble blocked all traffic and only ambulances were permitted to travel. The American Red Cross rush-.253/4 ed doctors, nurses, blood plasma,
