Many failures with seeds are caused by sowing them too deeply. Even experienced gardeners may do this. But it is not necessary to measure exactly the depth that seeds are placed in the open garden; they are not that particular.

The rule so often quoted, that the depth of sowing should be four times the diameter of the seeds, is best discarded; since on small seeds such accuracy of measurement would be impractical, and large seeds, like peas and carrots, are covered more than four times their diameter.

In light sandy soil, seeds can be placed more deeply than in heavy soil, containing lots of clay. The average gardener dealing with flower and vegetable seeds will get along quite well if he uses three kinds of drills. one for large seeds an inch or two deep, depending on the soil, and made by using the corner of a hoe; one for medium sized, which will be made with the hoe handle, and one for tiny flower seeds, which is best made by merely pressing the edge of a board into the ground.

Beginners should be told that a drill, in gardens, is the shallow trench in which row crops are sown. And it is vital that drills be straight and parallel to each other. Wiggly drills running at angles to each other, not only stamp the gardener as careless, but they double the work of cultivating the garden.

The entire garden should be outlined so that the rows can be squared with the boundaries. Then place stakes for the first row and stretch a line between them.

Some gardeners use a straight narrow board as a ruler to make the row straight. A garden line is likely to be more convenient; heavy lines wound on iron reels are handy, but any strong cord stretched between two stakes will do.

For small seeds such as radishes, oniors, carrots, lettuce and endive, a drill half an inch deep is enough. A little deeper for beets and Swiss chard, and an inch for peas, beans and sweet corn will be sufficient. Make drills a little deeper when hot weather comes.

HOOP TALK

Saturday night's big show at the Civic Centre had something that has not been publicly mentioned—as yet. But right here is a good place to express many, many thanks to the members of the Civic Band that helped make Bo-Me-Hi night such a success. When those martial airs filled the gymnasium — something very vital was added to the night. A feeling of excitement was added to the already keyed-up crowd. Yes it put basketball for Prince Rupert into the big-time by having that band there. When those marching tunes are heard it adds that extra thrill. Many thanks are due to the band members—and here's hoping we can hear them again in the very near future.

Tonight will be the first of three straight games Savoy and B.C. Packers are going to be having during the next week. And the way the Packers feel—now is their big moment to get cracking. Losing four league games was a little too much for the Packers and coach. Neil Ross puts himself on the spot by stating that this game tonight will chalk up a win for the Packers. Who knows — they might at that! The way things look on the Savoy squad—all isn't rosy and bright in their camp. And with the Packers bringing Don Fitch back into the line-up, Savoy will be up against a pretty determined bunch of players.

In the Senior "B" division, Co-ops are getting a little tired of the way Macey's have been rolling up victories. So it seems Macey's will have to watch their step if they are to stay up on their lofty perch atop the "B" league.

It's anyone's guess as to what is going to happen in the Ladies' department. With their coach on his way south with the Rainmakers, High School might be in for a little trouble tonight. Sweet Sixteen, on the other hand, is gradually getting the feel of the ol' maple court and they might just upset the powerful Rainbirds.

* * *

The Bo-Me-Hi Rainmakers are on the way south now and, after all the hussle-bussle of the past couple of days, the two-day trip on the boat will be devoted mainly to resting up. Trying hard not to appear too excited, the students nevertheless, are well aware of the hopes of all Prince Rupert. Invading the tight clique in the south they are all out to make our southern neighbors realize the north is not to be dealt with lightly. According to the Vancouver Daily Province, Prince Rupert is expected to lose in their opening game. That's what the south thinks!

Ketchikan came forth with a compliment last night, when Earl Leding, sports announcer for KTKN, mentioned Rupert's hospitality and their keen interest in sports. Thanks Earl! The same is very true of Ketchikan! He also dropped a word about the forthcoming visit of Prince Rupert's Men's and Girls' All-Star squads which are to be journeying north soon. He mentioned that they would be in Ketchikan this Friday and Saturday. But according to word in Prince Rupert, a date has not been definitely set as yet. Still the trip north is to come off—but officially, no one seems to know when.

Mike Clancy had been working on New York harbor tugboats for 50 years when he fell overboard and was drowned. This brought about a very fine wake, at which the highest praise was given the deceased and all the traditional ceremonies were observed.

During the proceedings, a friend of the widow asked her: "Did Mike leave you well fixed?"

"Shure, an' he did that. 'Tis 50 thousand he's after leavin' me."

The friend rolled her eyes heavenward. "Tch, tch, tch," she said. "Think of that. And him that couldn't read nor write."

"Yes," agreed the widow, shaking her head seriously, "nor swim."

Cpl.: "They say in China you can buy a wife for $5."

Pvt.: "Why, that's frightful!"

Cpl.: "Oh, I don't know. A good wife may be worth it."

The minister arrived back in town just in time to prepare a hurried sermon. He started off by saying: "If my sermon isn't up to standard I apologize. An hour before I came to the pulpit I sat down to write my text for today. I did not know what to write. But with God's help I managed to arrange a sermon —but I'll see that this doesn't happen again."

As the chorus girl said as she danced out onto the stage: "Guess I'll put the motion before the house."

As two brokers passed the Ziegfeld Theatre, out stepped one of those ravishing, alluring Follies beauties.

"I feel like taking her out again," whispered one.

"Have you had her out?" asked the other.

"No—but once before I felt like it."

Sandy McBain had to give an Edinburgh friend a wedding present—so he sent him a pair of his homing pigeons.

Australian, entering hospital: "Ullow, Bill!"

"Ullow, Steve!"

"Come in to die?"

"No, yesterdye."

A woman riding in a trolley car was anxious not to pass her destination. She poked the conductor with her umbrella and asked: "Is that the National Bank?"

"No, ma'am," replied the conductor. "That's my stomach."

A Greek who operated a small restaurant was noted among his patrons for his excellent service and his unconventional manner of spelling. Recently the placard in his window advertising his daily special carried the item: "Lam Stew."

A patron pointed out to Nick that "lamb" had to have a "b" on the end. The little restaurant keeper expressed his thanks for the information and promised to remember it.

A few days later Nick demonstrated that he had really taken the counsel to heart. For on his daily special announcement he carried the notice: "Clamb Broth."

The greatest undeveloped territory in the world lies just under your hat.

One night near Christmas last year, Mrs. Smith looked out of her window and exclaimed to Mr. Smith: "Why, how picturesque! Look, the Browns are carrying in the Yule log!"

"Yule log!" said Mr. Smith "That's no Yule log. That's Brown."

The nudists were planning a costume party and the ladies were worrying over what to wear. "Well," said one, "with my varicose veins, I think I'll go as a road map."

Our PEN is a Mighty Good Aid For Your Business!

While people are reading our news they are reading your advertisements.

Don't try to get along without advertising.

Don't be the forgotten business.

MAYBE you can sell all the merchandise you can get these days. But these days won't last forever. A year from now many lines of merchandise will be plentiful and then it will be the customer's day.

It will then cost you a lot of money to regain lost goodwill—but not if you keep before your customers with advertising.
