GARDEN 'NOTEBOOK'

CARE OF PLANNED GARDEN EASY AS SWEEPING FLOOR

Begin Early, Stand Up and Take It Easy in Cultivating Garden.

Cultivating the vegetable garden should start as soon as your young plants begin to grow. At this stage, if the soil between plants is stirred, it will be found to be full of tiny white sprouts, which are weeds, beginning to develop.

One easy stroke of the sharp hoe or cultivating tool will destroy scores of them before they have begun to compete with the vegetable plants for available plant food and water.

As long as weeds are killed in infancy, cultivation will be easy, but once they are allowed to begin substantial growth, not only do crops suffer, but work will increase, and the care of the garden may become a chore.

When tools are kept sharp and cultivation never neglected, it calls for no more physical exertion than wielding a broom. Modern advice is to take it easy and ever stir the ground deeper than once an inch. This is sufficient to kill young weeds, without disturbing the roots of the vegetable plants. It also breaks the soil crust, and allows air and water to penetrate readily.

Deep cultivation will dry out the soil, and may disturb the surface roots of your vegetable plants, which may do more harm than the cultivation does good.

Besides destroying weeds in the space between rows, those which grow in the row itself must be pulled when tiny. This requires hand work and is always tedious, but if attended to and he will be ready to take the title," he wrote. "To hold him—and others like him—both can be as harmful as to 'flog' a young boxer. And we have not that much talent at present."

Turpin, who he said was "easily the best (world-champion) prospect Britain has at any weight... is not only faced with the color bar (the B.B.C. rules forbid negro boxers to fight for British Professional Titles), but he must be content with eight and 10-round affairs until he reaches his majority. By that time he will have been able to clean up all the remaining middle-weights in the country twice over." He suggested the B.B.C. should waive its rule "when Turpin can no longer be held off," and added the board could obtain the advice of doctors and other experts as to whether he is competent or fit to go 15 rounds.

"MUSKEG" IN ARMY AGAIN

"Muskeg," Prince Rupert's canine war veteran, is not going to be rehabilitated to the farm after all but has returned to promptly it takes little time, and once the vegetables have become well established, hand weeding will be unnecessary.

Free air circulation in the soil has been proved to be a vital factor in the growth of plants. Experiments by Ohio State University proved that in properly porous soil there is a complete change of air to a depth of eight inches every hour. When the soil becomes compacted and crusted on the surface, this exchange was seriously hampered. Crust formation can be checked by various methods, including the application of a mulch, or by growing a living mulch of fescue grasses, or a creeping plant such as portulaca. But lacking a mulch, frequently shallow cultivation is necessary, especially after every rain.

Army life. In a sudden change of plans at the week-end, Pte. Clifford Krausher, one of the men who mans the big guns at Barrett Point, took "Muskeg" in charge and moved him out to the forts where, according to reports today, he was happily renewing his old customs and re-acclimatizing himself to Army life. Prospect is that "Muskeg" may be shortly transferred to Vancouver for another phase in an already interesting career.

Dr. Jens Munihe was about to take "Muskeg" to the farm at Terrace when Pte. Krausher put in an appearance with so anxious a plea for the old soldier that the local dentist yielded with the assurance that, whenever "Muskeg" became tired of the Army and for any reason needed another home, there would always be a haven for his declining years on the bench at Terrace.
