SPER EXPECTS AVY SEASON

NNIPEG—From present re-tions it would appear that coming season at Jasper Lodge will be the heaviest e history of the mountain t, even greater than last stated John Stark, man-of Jasper Park Lodge, who visitor in Winnipeg today.

ervations have been very y all winter and a feature ese is the number of 're-' of guests who have been asper previously. A large ntage of our guests this will have been with us for al seasons past.

e will be open on June 15 September 15, and with a ber of improvements made last fall the Lodge will be xcellent physical shape. The course, which was entirely ade during the war years n the Lodge was closed, has through the winter splen-and will afford the guests of the great courses of the ment to play on. The an-totem pole golf tourna-t will be played from Aug-31 to September 6 and as l we already have more ap-tions to play than we can care of. In recent years as been necessary to confine list of competitors to 200, we have nearly double that number applying to get in this year.

"There will be much new motor equipment to take care of those who desire to see the territory by motor and visit points of interest. Generally speaking it looks like a record all-round season," declared Mr. Stark.

Enjoys Climbing Lofty Mountains

VANCOUVER, (CP)—John Laurence Longland, 41-year old adventurer, author and educator, climbs high mountains "just for the sheer fun of it."

He accompanied the expedition which attained to within 850 feet of the top of 29,000-foot Mount Everest in 1935, after six weeks' struggle. The same year he was with the expedition that reached the top of 12,250-foot Watkins Peak in Greenland.

Longland, on a visit here, said lack of oxygen and the bitter cold prevented the party from reaching Everest's peak. In the Greenland trek there had been no time to train huskies and party members hauled their own sleds 130 miles across three mountain ranges.

At present he is county education officer for Dorset, England.

PLANS LAID FOR AUXILIAY GYMNASIUM

Roosevelt Park building will be used in construction of the new gymnasium wing, and proceeds from saleable material will offset the original $5,000 purchase price of the building which was bought from War Assets a year ago. The original purchase price also included $2,000 worth of valuable equipment.

Last night's decision of the board of directors centred round the need for gymnasium accommodation for specialized groups at the Civic Centre. Many of these groups, the board felt, are small in number and could use the auxiliary gym, while large classes and spectators sports could use the main gym.

The new unit will be 55 feet long and 31 feet wide, and from the standpoint of heating and general maintenance, will be an integral part of the main Civic Centre building. Civic Centre staff also will supervise activities in it.

The new gymnasium would house handball, badminton, squash, volleyball and practice basketball courts and will be equipped with standard gym apparatus.

A complete boxing room also will be constructed on the lower floor. This is something that the Civic Centre does not have at present and will be a permanent installation for training purposes.

Cost of the new gymnasium, according to plans and estimates are expected to be only slightly more than the rehabilitation cost of the Roosevelt Park gym.

In a statement today, Civic Centre director Don Forward said that on completion of the new gymnasium unit this fall "Prince Rupert will have the finest gymnasium accommodation in British Columbia."

"There will be spectator space for more than 700 in the main gym, eight badminton courts, showers, dressing rooms, private lockers, solarium, boxing and exercise rooms," he said. "Facilities of the main building will be readily available to those who use the new unit."
