nothing else than that, particularly since it was more than the most of us had expected. With the war now over nearly two years, the most of people have been thinking that it was time for a real amelioration in the tax burden and it is definite easing up that has been accorded. Further the personal income tax payers will not have to wait until the end of the year to enjoy the relief but it will be applicable at the middle of the year. It is not merely because it was the popular thing to do, not because the country's great obligations are met and certainly not because the money is not needed but because the people were getting sick of the high income tax and it has been sapping Contributing factor may also have been too that the people of Canada, particularly the young "that Americans have been having and were being irked thereby, some to the extent of being actuated to leave the country. The reduction of the income tax is, of course, the great feature of the budget which touches profits tax which has been hampering business is to be abolished although it does not come off until Mr. Abbott looks forward to a year of high prohas ever seen before in peacetime. His budget has been designed to encourage and foster such a happy the occasion which has been presented.
