An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and all communities comprising northern and central British Columbia. --- SUBSCRIPTION RATES ----City Carrier, per week, 15c; Per Month, 65c; Per Year, $7.00; By Mail, Per Month, 40c; Per Year, $4.00.

A/ITH a steadily rising business tempo throughout the area served by the Canadian National through Central British Columbia, one of our paramount and pressing needs at the moment is a daily mail and passenger service.

Evidence of this need and of how aggressive and farsighted individuals and companies are profiting by the situation can be seen at every hand.

In the interior bus and truck concerns are expanding in all directions, carrying passengers and freight which in the past have been at the mercy of a "Toonerville trolley" type of train service.

Air travel and long-distance telephone calls are growing in volume as a new generation of alert businessmen recognizes that business will not wait while mail gathers dust in post offices from Prince Rupert to Red Pass Junction.

Evidently our railway officials have their eyes on the "quick dollar" rather than future business and profits as the Prince Rupert-Red Pass line gradually assumes the character of a logging and fishing spur. They ignore the fact that central and northern B.C. is over the threshold of an era of expansion and prosperity exceeding even the rosy dreams of its townsite "boomers." The evidence is all around us. Completion of the Hart Highway will link southern and northern B.C. and tap new areas of wealth-forest, waterpower, coal and minerals. The projected Hazelton-Alaska road will intersect a country of many potentialities. There is every possibility the P.G.E. will be extended into the Peace River country. Traffic and trade will flow north and south, infusing new life into communities along the C.N.R. by the northward expansion of the province's frontiers.

Entry of the huge Celanese Corporation of America into this field is but the forerunner of similar moves by other pulp and paper companies. The abundant natural resources of B.C.'s hinterland are about to be exploited on a large scale. Periods of business depression may temporarily slacken this development. Nothing can halt it.

Businessmen in this country are keenly aware of the new era upon which we are entering. They are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars on new business sites, new premises, new equipment, confident the future will justify their optimism. They are wagering our prosperity is solid and permanent.

Would it be too much to ask officials of our publicly-owned transportation system and of the Post Office Department to display a little of the same vision, courage and energy? Or must our development be retarded indefinitely by a mail and rail service reminscent of stage coach and river boat days?

Thousands of residents from Prince Rupert to the Alberta boundary would like to know.

ECONOMIC UNDERSTANDING

A N ISSUE of major importance to all Canadians, A is the type of economy which has made this continent the envy of the whole world. It is essential that this economy be better understood for the positive values it gives each individual citizenvalues affecting his personal liberties-his standard of living and the opportunities or himself and his children.

Sometime ago the Council of the Montreal Board of Trade set up a committee to study the collectivist threat to our free society. Here are some of its findings:

"The communist preaches a gospel of negation about our wealth-producing way of life because he knows that communism here cannot stand up against our successful economic system and the tremendous advantages it brings to the free peoples on this continent-unless by boring from within, by disruption and by propaganda he can win a follow-

"The well-intentioned socialist attempts to minimize the advantages which we have today and to replace our present economy by instituting the monopoly of the state. He believes in total planning in place of the opportunities our present system offers where the individual is not subjected to the central authority of the state with its impact on his personal rights, his freedoms, his initiative and his rewards. In the competition for men's minds the socialists, too, are vocal for their promissory plans.

"Probably the most important point established through the study is that while we have achieved a fabulous record of industrial progress on this continent, management, labor and the public have only a scanty understanding of the principles which have made our system and its fruits the source to which the whole world now looks for aid. "It seems to us to be a matter of first importance that business management become conscious of the need to tell their employees not only how our system works-but also why it works as it does. It is is time for business not only to speak out but also to adopt modern methods and techniques in seeing that the story of the world's most successful economic system is known and understood."

Placed there by some volcanic eruption of past ages they were crushed into powder within the oval bottomed, stone basin. Mixed with water, they were thick, and as soft as the speech about them.
