TERRACE HAS REAL TALENT

Teen-Agers Present Three Good Plays

TERRACE—Some very fine talent among the local teen-agers came to light on Thursday evening at the Terrace Theatre when the Young People of the Knox United Church staged three plays. The theatre was full and each play was very well received by an appreciative audience.

George McAdams, the genial announcer, introduced each play and the actors and stated that part of the proceeds will be used to send one of the members to the Boys' Parliament in Victoria and the remainder will be applied to the Church Building Fund.

Later in the evening, Rev. P. M. Mallett, on behalf of the Young People, welcomed all those gathered there. The young people had worked very hard to produce these plays and he thanked the parents who had had to coach their youngsters in their parts. He also thanked Mrs. B. R. Dodds and Mrs. Brooks for lending furniture and other stage props. He expected that they would soon have sufficient funds to complete the building of the church.

The first play, "His First Shave," directed by a teenager, Flora Melvin, was very well played by all the characters and kept the house in an uproar to the very end. On the cast were Roy Clifford, Colleen Sites

CIVIC CENTRE

XMAS PRESENTS—Last week during the Junior Members' craft session, there was a shortage of looms for the weaving so they are now on order and will be ready for this Friday. Other Junior members could join this busy group making colorful presents for Christmas. One young member brought her knitting along and received expert advice from Mrs. Beckett who is so capably instructing on Friday afternoons. It is hoped that young ladies interested in learning to knit will attend on Friday afternoon.

LEATHERCRAFT—The young members of the Leathercraft club at the Civic Centre will be pleased to know that there are now colored leathers in stock from which project kits have been cut and are for sale complete in every detail. Change purses, pouch purses, key cases, men's wallets and men's purse kits have been prepared. They are the ideal gifts for Christmas. The capable assistance of Clifton Dalton is greatly appreciated in helping to prepare these kits for the craft groups.

Lorna Melvin, Effie Appeldoorn and Robin McColl.

The second play "Michael," an adaptation of Tolstoy's "What Men Live By" and directed by Mrs. Mallett, was a fine drama with a stirring climax well played by such young players. Players were Anita Brue, Gale McColl, Joan Gavan, Herbert Frandell, Robin McColl, Aaron Haaland, Sharon McIlroy, Marilyn Johnstone and Ann Smith.

After an intermission a delightful comedy, "A Marriage Proposal," sent everyone home in a happy mood. Showing the inconsistencies of human life, Margaret Kennedy, as the temperamental daughter of a Russian country farmer, did a first class piece of acting ably supported by Gerald Toop and Don Gillanders.

Helping behind the scenes were Jim Glen, Vim Appeldoorn, Sydney Kaufman and Denis de Kergommesaux. Ushers were David Gillanders and Leah Caruthers. Cashier was Irene Haugland. Costume and make-up: Joan Atwood, Flora Melvin, Mrs. Mallett.

WOODWORKING—The Woodworking class was such a well attended affair that in the bedroom at closing time some kiddie took the wrong coat in haste to get home for supper. Alan Brett's new plaid jacket was taken by mistake and he hopes to get it back real soon in place of the one he was obliged to wear home. The newest project is a Merry Christmas sign all cut and painted different colors to grace the front doorway at Christmas time. It is proving quite popular along with tie racks and book ends. This is really one of the busiest seasons of the whole week in the craft section of the Civic Centre and, even with the aid of Mrs. J. T. Harvey and Paul Dumont, there is plenty to keep the instructors working at a furious pace. Any volunteers would be most welcome at this busy gathering of future craft masters.
