Mr. and Mrs. James Rogerson and child returned to the city yesterday following a six weeks' motor trip to Eastern Canada and the United States, visiting among other places Prince Edward Island and New York.

Motor vehicles had not become so all conquering when the late Alex Yule started Prince Rupert's first blacksmith shop away back before the railway came through. There were horses in town and these, along with other orders, kept him reasonably busy. Alex did business on a slice of the waterfront handy to the site of the Armour Salvage. He was gruff, goodhearted, of rugged build, deep-voiced and stroked a cavalry moustache. He had lived in Montana before that colorful country became a state and he looked the part.

Using as his theme St. Paul's words, "Treasures in Earthen Vessels," Rev. Wilson likened Christian workers to the "earthen vessels" with God as the treasure they held.

Following the sermon regular Communion service was held.

Assisting in the evening services was the senior choir conducted by J. S. Wilson and accompanied on the organ by Mrs. L. Dakin.

At the morning service, E. D. Forward reported on the council from a layman's standpoint.

It may now be said that the long mooted St. Lawrence Waterway project, the achievement of which would form a continuous fresh water highway two thousand miles long from the heart of the continent to the open sea has at least two influential friends. In Canada, one is a gentleman known as George Drew, while in the United States it is a sutured and noted citizen called Thomas Dewey.

Hunting with bow and arrow has nothing to do with archery. One is the taking of life, if possible. The other is sport. If one must hunt, do it with a gun, and see that you kill it. It is not necessary to use the weapons of centuries ago but some seem to think so. There are those who range the shores and woods of British Columbia and take it out on the beautiful and harmless creatures living there. If there are no such people, then why was a badly maimed seagull found near Vancouver the other day? An arrow had been driven partly through the bird's body.

COMMANDANT IS WELCOMED

Members of the Prince Rupert Salvation Army corps welcomed their new officers, Major and Mrs. W. Yurgensen, at installation ceremonies which were part of the Sunday services yesterday at the Citadel.

Major and Mrs. Yurgensen were introduced to the meetings by Senior Major C. Warrander, divisional commander, and were accorded warm welcomes by corps members at both the morning and evening meetings.

Addresses of welcome were made by Mrs. Warrander and by Sgt. Major Mat Waksdale, in behalf of the corps, and by Senior Captain Mrs. Chambers, director of the native girls' hostel.

Formerly stationed at Kenya Colony, Major and Mrs. Yurgensen have been in Canada for almost a year, posted at Nanaimo, where Major Yurgensen assisted with Salvation Army public relations work. They served in Kenya for 16 years with headquarters at Nairobi.

Major Yurgensen replaces Capt. Earl Jarrett, who has been transferred to take charge of the corps at Glen Vowell.

REPORTS ON CHURCH MEET

Rev. R. A. Wilson and Don Forward Tell of General Council

Rev. R. A. Wilson, who was a delegate to the general council of the United Church of Canada in Vancouver, gave a brief outline of the council and its work when he addressed the congregation last night at the First United Church.

SHIFFER-HILLMAN

As an introduction to his subject Rev. Wilson described the general organization of the church's governing bodies, pointing out how all officers arrived at their positions through democratic procedure. He said the council meeting was the finest he had ever attended and the delegates gave the impression they were there to do business and not merely to make speeches. One of the most inspiring aspects of the council sessions was the noontime devotional service when, besides the delegates, hundreds of Vancouver residents attended the St. Andrew's Wesley Church, said the speaker. Dr. Howard Thurman, pastor of the Church for the Fellowship of all Peoples in San Francisco, was the guest speaker at these devotional periods.
