GROUNDING—Cradled between two rock outcrops in Shoal Bay, between Petty Harbor and Bay Bulls, about 26 miles from St. John's Nfld., the British freighter Flatholm lies at the mercy of the heavy Atlantic swells. Travelling from England to Halifax, the ship was heading for St. John's for supplies when she ran aground Nov. 17 in a dense fog. Inset is Capt. R. A. Winn, master of the Flatholm. (CP PHOTO)

Fishermen's Floats To Get Water Again

City council, at the instigation of Ald. George B. Caszy, instructed the city engineer Monday night to proceed at once with the restoration of a waterline through the shipyard to the fishermen's floats east of the dry dock. During the recent cold snap, the line froze up and fishermen from the floats went through the fence to get water in the dry dock and was closed by the city engineer as water was wasting. The city engineer told the council that he had advised the Department of Transport, which is responsible for the line, of the situation but no action had been taken. It should be buried, the engineer said. The council decided that the water service to the floats should be restored at once, charging up the cost to the Department of Transport if necessary.

Blackwood On Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Mr. Dale, the master of bridge humanics, likes to bid and make a game as well as the next man. But he never was one to underestimate the value of a partial score. He knows that part scores often cause opponents to stretch in their defensive bidding, offering opportunities for juicy penalty doubles.

Both sides vulnerable. South dealer.

Lasie Sermon Or Primate

By MRS. J. B. GIBSON

Last Sunday in Anglican churches all over Canada tribute was paid to the late Primate of the Church of England in Canada George Frederick Kingston. Perhaps no greater tribute could be paid to him to pass on through the medium of the press, words and thoughts contained in his last sermon.

The Primate took Stewardship as his theme: To say that there is a Supreme Being who is the Maker of Heaven and earth, the Lord and Giver of life is a valid statement. It is our duty to recognize his sovereignty. Man is a creature—not the lord of creation. He is responsible to God for how he uses his time. If it is thought you are master of your fate, remember the man in the Bible who was told: "This night your soul shall be required of thee." That man did not take all facts into consideration he left God out. Then God spake.

"We are to beware of laying up treasure on earth. That tendency exists in an exaggerated form in the twentieth century. Man thinks he is a creator. Today it is the duty of man to turn to God for all that we have and all that we do. There is indifference today to worship. Men—develop hatred and strife. If they look upon themselves as creator Power to work is the gift of God, for which we should give thanks and praise to Almighty God.

"We have a land rich in resources with an unparalleled expansion in our country. But we will be deep in poverty if we do not acknowledge God. The spirit of Christ Jesus our Lord calls every one, man, woman and child to recognize God by good stewardship.

"By our service we are to recognize all that we have and present our bodies a living sacrifice acceptable to God. There is stewardship of talent and time. God is to be the centre of our lives. There should be time for worship, private prayer, Church work, work in the community. Sunday should be a day of worship and rest. Young men and young women would do well to consider the Christian religion. God has a plan for us to do the work he wants us to do. "Render to God the things that are God's" our talents and our lives.

The Primate closed his last words to the people of Canada by appealing to the boys and girls listening in to take up the work of the Church. This they were to make a matter of prayer.

British Doctors To Quit Health Scheme

BLACKPOOL, Eng.—About ninety percent of doctors indicate they will resign from Britain's national health service unless they receive higher fees. Here physicians are given an average of $2.40 a year from the government for each patient, making up an average income of $3,600.

whether to try for a game on a hand is the probable quality of the auction. Over Mr. Dale's opening bid of one spade Mrs. Keen chose to bid two spades rather than one no trump. This put Mr. Dale in quite a quandary. Playing against Mr. Muzzy or even Mr. Abel, he would have promptly jumped to four spades.

A second look at his opponents made him decide to test out Mrs. Keen with a three spade bid, which she quickly passed. It was a good thing he gave proper credit to his resourceful opponents.

Mr. Masters opened the jack of hearts, dummy's queen covered and Mr. Champion won with the ace. East now led the queen of diamonds and Mr. Dale allowed it to win. The jack of diamonds followed and Mr. Dale won with the ace. He led a small spade to dummy's queen, played the king of hearts and discarded the last diamond from his hand. Next he led dummy's last diamond and ruffed it with the four of spades.

Dummy was entered again with the jack of spades and the six of hearts led and ruffed with the seven of spades in the closed hand. Now with the red suits eliminated and the trumps out, Mr. Dale was ready for an end play. He felt rather good about the way he had handled the cards so far.

His next play was the ace of clubs—but his plan was thwarted when Mr. Masters promptly played the king under the ace. Now Mr. Dale must lose two club tricks to Mr. Champion. A brilliant defensive play had held the hand to three-odd... but that was all that Mr. Dale had bid.

If Mr. Masters had played low on the ace of clubs, he would have had to win the following trick with the king of clubs. Any lead he made at this point would enable declarer to ruff in dummy and shed a losing club from his hand.

Against lesser opposition Mr. Dale surely would have been in a game contract. But he always remembers the Humanics of bridge. He knows it applies to the quality of the opposition as well as to the judgment and ability of his partner.

"Copper Canyon" Exciting Film

Bristling with action from start to finish, "Copper Canyon," coming to the Capitol Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is an exciting outdoor epic in technicolor. It is the action-packed story of a group of miners who are being driven off their land by a ruthless industrialist who refuses to smelt their ore. Desperate, they employ a former army officer, posing as a vaudeville trick shot artist, who leads them in an explosive climax to a bang-up triumph over their enemies.

As the expert marksman, Ray Millard appears as much at home in action pictures as he is in drawing room comedies. Called upon for a maximum of hard riding, straight shooting and rugged stunts as well as a bit of romance with Hedy Lamarr, he sets the pace for the rest of the cast.

Macdonald Carey is a real menace in his portrayal of a crooked deputy. Mona Freeman and Harry Carey Jr. carry on a secondary romance to soften somewhat the pile-driving action sequences.
