Chinese Entering Korea in Force

100,000 Troops Have Moved In?

In Spite of MacArthur's Statement of No Definite Evidence

TOKYO — A spokesman at General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today confirmed the capture of ten Chinese Communist soldiers in North Korea but said the presence of organized Chinese units has not been established definitely.

United States troops made some more headway today by capturing two hubs in North Korea, sweeping within two miles of Manchuria's border.

Other Allied units, however, met with fierce pressure from Red forces.

Several facts, however, pointed strongly to the possibility that Chinese Reds have entered the Korean war and in force. Four areas where prisoners have been captured are fairly widely separated. Resistance has stiffened tremendously since last Friday. Entire complexion of the fight has changed from a virtual parade to a set of battles resembling Seoul and Kumchun.

The North Koreans have definitely been supplied with new armaments.

In Washington officials expressed no surprise at the reported appearance of Chinese Communist troops in the Korean war but do not expect large scale intervention against United Nations forces.

A high American intelligence officer quotes a Chinese prisoner as saying he had heard 100,000 troops of China's Red Army had crossed the Yalu River into Korea.

Ready For Hallowe'en

VANCOUVER—Authorities are fully prepared to maintain good order tonight, which is Hallowe'en. According to announcements any who feel disposed to carry on acts of defiance of the law will find themselves promptly under arrest.

Judging from the general tone of the press, there is an impression that there may be attempts to make trouble, such as riots and destruction, and the police, as well as others, are in no mood to let it amount to anything. A plain warning is given that disorder will be immediately and vigorously dealt with.

Mrs. Anna Boettiger was his divorced wife. She is not remarried and lives in California.

Indian Superintendent Calls For New Native Deal; Upholds New Act

At the regular monthly dinner-meeting of the Prince Rupert Burns Club in the Broadway Cafe, F. E. Anfield, superintendent of Indian Affairs, was the guest speaker. Warmly welcomed, Mr. Anfield gave a most interesting and informative address, spiced with anecdotes and quips of speech, and through it running the golden thread of tribute to the Burns ideal — the "brotherhood of man" — in its application to the lot and status of the Indians and their future prospects and place among the other free peoples of the Dominion.

Russia's Peace Plan Rejected

LAKE SUCCESS — The United Nations General Assembly's political committee yesterday rejected Russia's peace program. Then a last-minute manoeuvre by the Soviet prevented the committee from voting at once in a counter-proposal offered by the United States and six other powers.

Rejection of the Soviet resolution came after a week of debate in which spokesmen for the non-Communist world charged Moscow had prepared a propaganda trap and was not making a sincere move to ease the international tension.

D. Westover is a passenger on the Camosun on his way to Vancouver today.

There were 136,000 of the native race in Canada (the rate of increase having been 2½ per cent over the years). Not so many years ago the death rate was 400 per thousand in the first six months of life — excepting in India and China, one of the highest in the world. They have 5½ million acres of land granted by royal commission under act of Parliament confirmed by the provinces and their welfare is under the administration of the Indian Department. The vote for Indian Affairs administration has risen from two millions to 21 million dollars.

EMANCIPATION

There was in some quarters fear of a paternalistic state with Indians included. There had been opinions that they were merely a charge on Crown and Dominion, and if left alone would die out. But, contrarily, they had increased in numbers and the problems of disease and want arose. Real emancipation came with the inception of the Atlantic Charter calling for protection and welfare of minority groups by the larger nations.

This was a problem Canadians should concentrate on before considering other, distant groups. Indian Affairs have been administering without much change since the Indian Act of 1869, but the new Bill 267—the "Magna Carta" for Indians—(Continued on page 4)

Burglaries Lead To Two Arrests

Young Men Being Charged After Entries of Downtown Offices

Bruce Montney, 25, and Dezil Johnson, 23, were picked up by police yesterday and charged this afternoon with breaking and entering in connection with an entry to the office of Crawford Moore in the Smith Block over the week-end. The case is still under investigation and the case was adjourned.

Other charges may be laid against the pair in connection with breaking and entering of Brown & Harvey, Northern B.C. Power Co., and Canadian Immigration offices in the Besner Block.

The entries were made between Saturday night and Monday morning and small amounts of money and loose articles were taken in the four cases.

Crawford Moore's office was entered by lifting an unlatched window opening on to a ground floor roof in a light well. A $20 bill was taken from a desk drawer and a cigarette lighter. The cigarette lighter is alleged to have been found in a room on Third Avenue occupied by the pair, also articles from Brown & Harvey's office.

The office of the barristers was entered by springing a lock with a celluloid "cheater." An old revolver, a fountain pen, $7 in American coins and $3 in Canadian money was taken. Also in the room of the pair was found a burned check from Brown & Harvey which it is believed an attempt may have been made to destroy.

A lock was hacked away in forcing the door of the immigration office and, as far as is known, only a rubber stamp was taken.

Keys and a fountain pen disappeared from the Northern B.C. Power Co. office which was also forced.

The entries are believed to have been the work of room prowlers rather than experienced burglars.
