Story Of Our Times

THREE MEN were travelling along a road known as the political highway. They were in search of a place known to some persons as Peace, to others as Prosperity, and to still others as Security.

Here, it was reported, was a state of great happiness, where such things as work and taxes were seldom mentioned, where selfishness and crime were just things of human fancy, and even the { housing situation was adequate.

Now it so happened that each of the travellers had a chart which showed the route to their destination. Eventually, they came to a crossroads, hoping to see a road sign to guide them, but, alas, the sign had been a war casualty, and had not been replaced, so the travellers halted to consult their charts. One of them claimed they should take the road BLOOD STORAGE to the left. One said they should go straight. The UNIT IS BEING third said, "Follow me, I'll take you right." This, of course, led to some confusion until a fourth INSTALLED HERE traveller arrived, and suggested that they jump straight up to see what lay ahead. After some debate they all agreed to turn back Prince Rupert people before the way they had come, and consult the home folks. So it came about that after a certain number of to say "thank you" by donating some of their own blood for the days, the great decision was to be made. ### Canada Gratuities For Americans

WASHINGTON-The government is looking for a few thousand Americans who served in Canadian armed forces. It wants to give them the benefits of which they are entitled. including cash. Every American veteran of the Canadian forces is entitled to a war service gratcredit. The gratuity is $7.50 for each 30 days service in the western hemisphere and $15 for every 30 days service overseas. The re-establishment credit about equals the gratuity.

To some, the so-called issues are clear and cer-ARE FRESHER! tain, to others they are somewhat confused. There are some who will claim that it is a contest of personalities. There are others who just as seriously maintain that great principles are involved. There are those who will declaim at length, without breadth, and some with heat, without light. Some will be attractors and some may be detractors. Many will use the platform and the radio for the spoken word. Many will use the newspaper or other literature for the printed word. Logic and emotion will each find their place.

Three men are travelling along a road known as a political highway. They are really searching for your help and mine to make this Canada a more ideal country. Let us work and vote for what we can find best, not only for ourselves, but for our children as well.

NOVA SCOTIA VOTES

THINGS WENT just about the way it was expected they would in Nova Scotia's provincial election yesterday. There was no serious anticipation that Premier Angus Macdonald's government, which has given the Maritime province good government since 1933, would not be returned to office. The only question was the size of its majority which is still substantial although cut from last time. The Progressive Conservatives are back from the wilderness with a tidy group of eight members and the C.C.F. has two seats as before.

If trends can be taken from the result in Nova Scotia, the two old parties can take comfort and encouragement-the Liberals because their mamajority of seats, while clipped, is still very strong. The Progressive Conservatives can really boast for all their eight seats were gains. The C.C.F. showed diminishing strength, losing the official oppositionship and, according to early indications, dropping in popular vote.

Now the British Columbia provincial election will be watched with national interest next week in view of the fact that it precedes the federal election by only twelve days.
