CEEING... with CEE

Prince Rupert citizens who are looking for a lively summer reading would find "Sense and Nonsense" by Eric "Jaber" Nicol easy going. Professor Nicol packs a lot of humor into his small book. When the heat waves are doing their burning best to roast the unfortunates who must stick to the city during the hot weather, Richard Finnie's "Canada Moves North" may give you a few refreshing hours.

There is a way you can ice-cool your drinks now without diluting them. A firm has put out shatter-proof plastic cubes with water sealed within them. You keep a few of these "nice cubes" in the refrigerator so their contents are frozen and dunk them in the drinks as required. They can be used over and over and come in a variety of colors.

Do you avoid small carpets on highly polished floors? They are O.K., brother, if they have been painted with a new plastic liquid that is guaranteed to keep them from slipping from under the unsuspecting floor walker. It won't mark the floor either, according to the maker.

In small houses and apartments the lady of the establishment is always looking for some way to economize on space. Dining tables are usually bulky but now there is a type in town that can be folded until it looks like a side table. For family use a leaf is folded back from the top and rests on a secure extension leg. For reunions the table can be stretched out to about 7 feet and additional leaves used for the covering.

Perhaps mankind is getting softer. Anyway it seems to be the style to cushion even the humble kitchen chair these days and, while you are on the job, you might as well do it up right with padding encased in plastic material that won't crack, wrinkle or lose its shape. (That's what the man said).

It used to be fashionable to buy imported goods but today there is a growing demand for and pride in things Canadian. Pride in home products was particularly noticeable among Canadian troops who served overseas. And speaking of war equipment brings us right up to those dainty little floral brooches worn by many of the fair sex. Canadian manufacturers are competing very favorably in that china novelty industry.

Curbside observations indicate that, when the sun is pouring its maximum candlepower on to the city streets from a cloudless sky, some of our male citizens are not averse to matching the weather's mood with shirts and jackets of gay colors. Hurrah! But they have a bit of catching up to do before they can out-dazzle the girls. Some of the new pin whale corduroy slacks are examples of the striking colors the ladies have to choose from.

If you are a gardener and your sweet peas are ready to start climbing you needn't fuss with string or scrounge old fish nets, you can buy new net from an enterprising merchant who sells it in lengths of 50 feet or less at a very reasonable price.

Speaking of fish net is a reminder that someone in Vancouver is reported to have invented a new fish fooler. It might better be called a herring saver for that is its chief function. Made of perspex or plastic the gadget has a trough-like place for the herring with a disc-shaped attachment on the front. The disc is set on a slant and, apparently designed to give the lure a life-like wiggle and to plane the arrangement down into deep water. A hook is attached to a line threaded through the front of the lure and out the bottom.

The idea, of course, is that the fish can see the bait but when he strikes, the plastic protects the herring and the hook securely lodges in the attacker's mouth.

PIONEER PASSES

Helmar Hammarberg Came In Early Days to Lakes District

FRANCOIS LAKE—Helmar P. Hammarberg, early settler of the Lakes district, passed away at his farm home near Danskin last Tuesday and the funeral was held on Saturday, a large number of friends from all settlements to the south being in attendance. Service was conducted by the Rev. A. W. Atkinson and many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket.

Mr. Hammarberg was one of the first four settlers to locate in the areas now known as Grassy Plains and Danskin. His partner was Eric Johnson, who predeceased him. Others of the party of pioneers were Andy Dahiberg and Axel Olson, the latter being the only one of the quartette to be still alive. There was neither road nor trail to the settlement they chose to develop but they moved slowly, and built roads and trails as they progressed.

Hammarberg and Johnson trapped the Big Eutsuk and over the Coast Divide in 1912 making a record catch of 396 marten and a proportionate number of beaver, otter, fisher, mink, wolverine, ermine and other furs which abounded in that district.

All the trappers who have wintered in that district put together have not equalled their catch during the past fifteen years, which goes to show that the fur bearers are doomed to extermination.

The deceased is survived by his wife and his son, Eric.

Honorary pall bearers were Axel Olson, Barney Mulvany, David Murray and Oscar Bostrom, while active pall bearers were Howard Brott, Andrew Johnson, Henry Anderson and William Bickle, all friends of thirty-five years standing.

TEARFUL TESTIMONY—Explaining to a coroner's jury how he shot and killed a 14-year old playmate, Donald Brooks, during a mock hold-up Richard Harrell, 13, breaks into tears during his testimony in Los Angeles, Cal. Richard told the jury he was playing with a gun "loaned" to him by another boy who had stolen it and he didn't know it was loaded.

WHERE THREE ZONES MEET IN BERLIN—This is the strange scene in Potsdamer Square, Berlin, where all three zones—Russian, British and U.S., meet each other. A plebiscite for the unity of Germany has been under way since May 23 and is about to end. Each sector carries a poster concerning it. The Russian zone poster above says: "You are entering the Russian sector! Here exists democratic right of self-government. Here you can stand up for Germany's unity. Here you are not hindered in signing the lists of the plebiscite." The U.S. zone poster, not shown, says: "You are entering the U.S. sector! Here exists American democracy. One wants to forbid the plebiscite, however no power can hinder you from signing. Don't forget your democratic rights. Sign the lists." The British zone poster says: "You are entering the British sector. Here you are allowed to sign for the plebiscite. Decide as a German! Germany's unity is Germany's future, for it guarantees bread and peace for our people. Therefore sign the lists of the plebiscite for Germany's unity."

"The Stereoscope"
Three dimensional wonder

Down from Pike's Corner would come Aunt Jane, Uncle Ned and their brood... happy to view the wonders of six continents... the foreign... the exotic... the new... All through that wonder—the three dimensional stereoscope. It was ever an instrument, "Ah" evoking... a delight and education to all!

The evening then topped off round the festive board... pickle-packed, laden with cold ham and chicken, apple sauce and milk for the children, and, of course, Royal Export for the elders. Today, as in 1901, the thoughtful host still counts on Royal Export Beer to help him, perfectly, round out a gathering of his good friends.

EVERYTHING HASN'T RAISED IN PRICE...

● It may surprise many but 1847 Rogers and Community Silver flatware is the same price as before the war.

And as the tax is now off it should be doubly attractive.

Bulger's always sell standard goods at Canadian advertised prices even though express charges are more than those of places nearer to the factories.

For instance a Big Ben clock or set of silver sells for the same price as in Ontario where it is made.

A large part of our stock is made up of standard advertised goods and we try to keep the balance in line with the prices of other cities. And we guarantee the satisfaction of our goods.

Something from Bulger's is always something worth having.
