second vice president of the Union of B. C. Municipalities, an honor which is normally construed as a step toward the presidency. Despite ill health earlier in the year, Mayor Arnold is busy again both in business and civic life.

The name of former Mayor Harry M. Daggett—now an alderman—has been mentioned as a likely mayoral candidate, although so far he has offered no public comment on his plans. His aldermanic term still has one year to run.

Four aldermanic seats normally will come up for election in December 15 elections. They are those of Alderman T. B. Black, W. F. Stone, George Rudderham and George B. Casey. The first three were elected two years ago, while Alderman Casey went in for a one-year term last December on a by-election.
