Press More Democratic

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE. (Reuters).—The press in Communist Yugoslavia is becoming more democratic.

A radical transformation in the spirit of the press here has been taking place, especially during the last nine months, as a result of Premier Tito's break with Russia more than two years ago.

Yugoslav newspaper men have moved away from Soviet Models of writing toward something nearer western ideas of objective reporting.

Much more space is being given by all newspapers to foreign news items, especially proceedings at the United Nations.

The news is often given as straight quotations from foreign—especially western—news agencies without political slant or official comment U.N. and North Korean war communiques, for instance, are regularly given in this way side by side.

One purpose behind more foreign news in the Yugoslav papers and on the radio, one Communist official of the Belgrade radio says, is to discourage people from listening to foreign broadcasts, which many of them do regularly.

Newspaper criticism of how

Yugoslavia is being run, especially in the economic sphere, is also increasing.

A landmark in these developments is seen here in "A letter from London," a regular feature contributed to the government-controlled Belgrade Newspaper Politika by its London correspondent, Miroslav Radichich.

When two years ago Yugoslav comment on the British scene was almost entirely critical, there now is greater objectivity and even friendliness and praise.

Radichich admires the discipline and politeness of the British people, the efficiency of London transport, the way rationing is organized; but disapproves of the "sensationalism" of the British press and of inequalities in housing.

Politika's correspondent disapproves of British newspapers which though "technically" unsurpassed in the world, use "cleverly striking, suggestive headlines above a text which is often unimportant and even means nothing."

Fools' cap paper is so-called from the device of a fool's cap and bells originally used as a watermark.

HELP PREVENT TOOTH DECAY!

BEFORE IT STARTS... INSTEAD OF AFTER IT APPEARS

AMMONIATED LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

...designed to help prevent decay 3 ways!

1. Chemical action reduces mouth acidity. Mouth acidity encourages decay.
2. Mechanical action cleans surfaces as teeth are brushed—helps break up and remove decay-breeding deposits.
3. Chemical action checks acid-forming bacteria—a major cause of decay.

You've undoubtedly read about this great new anti-decay formula in your newspapers and magazines. It's the famous formula, developed by the University of Illinois Foundation, that caused such a vast interest in dental circles because of its promising method of attacking tooth decay by means of the chemical action of the ammonium ion.

In preliminary tests conducted at the University, case after case of reduction in the incidence of tooth decay was reported. Now the manufacturers of Listerine Antiseptic make this same formula readily available to you and to your family with the introduction of Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste.

Start in with Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste today. Use it regularly, as directed, morning and night and immediately after eating. Notice its delightful, tangy, refreshing flavor. You'll like it. Your children will like it. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co. (Canada) Ltd., Toronto, Ontario.
