. . . at the same moment : citizen of Los Angeles reads his newspaper.

Canada supplies three of every five pages of the world's newspapers. Quite likely our American friend's daily paper recently formed part of a tree in a British Columbia Forest. Newsprint is manufactured from trees and over 350,000 tons of it are produced annually in B.C.

Other products include dissolving pulps for the manufacture of rayon, bleached and unbleached sulphite and sulphate pulps as well as scores of different pulphoard, paper and paperboard products. Most of these pulp and paper products are exported. resulting in a return to this province of approximately 50 million dollars annually in needed Foreign Exchange. This new wealth benefits every citizen through increased employment, a stimulation of business in all industries and expansion of trade generally.
