New Canadians—
Can Be Good
Citizens Here

Canadian Club Hears Noted Newspaperwoman and European Correspondent
"These people will make good Canadians if we are good Canadians ourselves," said Mollie Magee, Canadian newspaperwoman and European correspondent when she told 80 members of the local Women's Canadian Club at dinner last night of people who are coming over from war-torn Europe to settle in this country as "New Canadians."
Miss Magee, as correspondent for the London News Chronicle in Vienna, has travelled extensively through Europe. She expressed intense interest in the future of millions of people who are scattered throughout Europe in Displaced Persons camps. Some, she said, had been moved as Nazi slave labor, when they were shipped as far away from their homes as possible—Poles were sent to France and Belgium, etc., while Belgians were transported to the other side of the continent. Others fled from their homes during the war as invaders moved in. With the end of hostilities UNRRA was formed and the United Nations introduced an International Refugee Organization with headquarters in Geneva. Canada was a member along with 16 or 18 other countries. Some were trying to help—some by financial aid, others by accepting them as immigrants. Canada agreed to take these people into industries where there was a demand for labor—mining, lumbering and agriculture—as well as domestic servants. Before they are admitted they must pass certain requirements and sign a contract for a year.
There are many methods of spreading propaganda about a country, the speaker continued. Today, the letters going back to Europe from "New Canadians" are influencing thousands. Austrian and German newspapers carry stories of these people. "We manufacture our own propaganda—for they write as they see and find us," Miss Magee said.
Displaced Persons camps are not prison camps. There are no gates and the people are not forced to stay. There is just no place else for them to go. The population of an average camp is between 2,000 and 3,000. They are self-governed, with a representative of the occupation force in charge, and contain a cross-section of the citizens of many nationalities. They are there because they are anti-Communist and have had to flee from their homeland.
In one of the camps Miss Magee visited she asked if she might talk with some of the people. Four shabby old men were presented to her. One had been a leading magistrate while the others were a civil engineer, a professor of chemistry and the head of a technical High School. Now they were too old and tired to feel that the future held anything for them. A conference was held to discuss what could be done for the many scientists and professional men whose talents were being lost to the world. This resulted in

MISTOOK OIL
FOR GASOLINE

"Kerosene" which turned out to be gasoline caused a flash fire which badly scorched the interior of Cabin 2, Cow Bay, at 3 p. m. Tuesday when an occupant of the shack poured it into a stove to stimulate a flagging fire.
Police were told that one of a group of men in the cabin, which was occupied by John Murphy, who was away at the time, mistakingly poured a quantity of gasoline into the stove, thinking it was kerosene. James McKay received singed eyebrows and another man had his clothing burned.
Walls of the room were badly scorched by the sudden heat and a loaf of bread on a nearby table was partly toasted.

LOCAL MEN WITH TRAINING GROUP

The local battery group that left recently for a period of winter training at Wainwright, Alberta, formed part of a total of about 400 officers and men by the time they reached their destination. The special C.N.R. train leaving Vancouver picked up the local men and some 60 more troops from the Okanagan as well as from other points in Southern British Columbia.
Mrs. R. B. Skinner returned to the city at noon today on the Prince Rupert from a trip to Vancouver.

Reasonable Ideas for Housekeepers

HOT BREAD FOR LUNCH—VARIOUS CEREALS CAN BE COMBINED

Bread, the staff of life, takes on glamor when it is served hot. Hot rolls, hot baking powder biscuits or scones served with butter and honey or jam make a dessert that is enjoyed by everyone. These breads do not necessarily have to be made at the last minute either. They may be split, buttered and reheated just before serving time.
Delicious breads of this kind are made by combining different cereals for added flavor and food value. Combinations of rolled oats with cornmeal, whole wheat with added wheat germ or bran or breakfast foods that are mixtures of several cereals, all make good breads with either baking powder or yeast as leavening.
Home economists say that the new one-knead method is an excellent one for hot yeast rolls and they have an idea that speeds up even the quick method.
JIFFY ROLLS
2 cakes compressed yeast or 2 tablespoons fast-rising yeast
1/2 cup lukewarm water
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup scalded milk
1/2 cup shortening, melted
1/2 cup molasses
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 egg
3 cups whole wheat flour
Soak yeast in lukewarm water and add sugar. Combine scalded milk, shortening, molasses, and salt and cool to lukewarm. Soaked yeast and blend well together with milk mixture. Add flour and mix well. Roll out on well-floured board and fit into greased pan 10" by 10". Cut dough with floured knife into strips 1 1/4" wide, then lengthwise down the centre of the pan. Brush cut surfaces with melted fat. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Bake in a very hot oven, 425 degrees F., for 20 minutes. Yield: 1 dozen large rolls.
JAM POCKETS
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour or 2 1/4 cups sifted pastry flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening, melted
Jam
Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg, add milk. Make a depression in the flour mixture, pour in egg and milk, then melted shortening. Stir as little as possible in mixing. Turn half the mixture into well-greased muffin tins, add 1 teaspoon jam to each muffin and cover with remaining batter. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., for 25 minutes. Yield: 1 dozen medium-sized muffins.
FRUIT SCONES
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour or 2 1/4 cups sifted pastry flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup currants or raisins
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles fine bread crumbs. Add currants or raisins. Combine egg and milk and blend with dry ingredients. Toss onto floured board and knead very slightly. Roll out to 3/4 inch thickness and cut into rounds 6 inches in diameter. Brush top with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Place on baking sheet and bake in a very hot oven, 425 degrees F., for 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: 8 six-inch scones.
