Special Supplement

WITH THEIR REGULAR EDITION of the Daily News today our readers have an eight-page supplement timed for the occasion of the annual Civic Centre Carnival, which opens this evening, and the annual Port Day, which is set for next Thursday. The special section, made possible with the support of local business people and others who have taken advertising space, attempts to publicize the two big annual celebrations in an effective way and, at the same time, to a limited extent, draw attention by word and picture to the industrial life with particular reference to the marine and port aspects.

We hope our modest effort will prove of some interest. A limited number of extra papers have been run off and are available for those desirous of sending them to friends or others who might desire to be brought up to date on latest developments in this area.

PARADOX IN WILL

THE WILL of the late Joseph E. Atkinson discloses that control and operation of the Toronto Star should not be permitted to fall into private hands. The property, having an estimated value of about eight million dollars, is willed to the Atkinson Charitable Foundation. Why the seeming opposition to private enterprise is surprising to some conservative folk because in private hands conducting the Star, it grew from a small, struggling paper to one of the largest and most prosperous establishments of Canada.

RAIN HOLDS UP HARVEST

But Additional Precipitation Is Benefitting Crop WINNIPEG—Harvesting which had commenced in early sown crop in the three prairie provinces has been held up this past week by widespread rains, according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways. The added precipitation will assist in good filling of the crop which is already apparent, but will delay maturity of later sown crops. It will require another two to three weeks without frost if they are to be successfully harvested. Hail damage is reported from several points, the heaviest occurring at Deloraine in southern Manitoba which ranged from 10 percent to 80 percent in this section. Some flax fields were so damaged that they had to be ploughed under.

DRAW GAME IN SOCCER

An eagerly fought out game last night in the Mobley Cup Football competition saw the Battery overcome a three-goal deficit and earn a draw with the young battling High School eleven. This game again provided the spectators with a good display of fighting football. Battery staged a great comeback after being three goals down at half-time. C. C. Mills sailed on the Catala last night on a business trip to Vancouver. AIR PASSENGERS To Vancouver—C. A. Smith, Miss M. Sinn, Capt. J. Purtell, J. Yates, D. York, L. E. Richard, R. A. Jones, W. SATURDAY SERMON

COME AND SEE (By REV. A. M. McCOLL, Vancouver) "Come and See."—John 1:46.

These words are wholesome, frank, open and above board. The Gospel courts inspection. Take sledge and sound every stone—no room in the Temple is locked. Knock and it shall be opened. Free is the Holy of Holies to all. Personal experience is the vital note. The Christian religion has everything to gain from thorough probing. It has no favors to ask. All its favors are gifts. It submits itself to the test of science. It asks men to think and prove. It places us on the hills yonder in the north and in the south, the east and west. It wishes nothing secreted. It is for the daylight and the uplands. Let there be no political wire-pulling, or dating or doctoring in the dark. Let nothing be done in a corner. Let the examination be merciless and thorough. Let the whole truth be told. Search, sift, satisfy, question, "cross-question! Neglect not hammer and scalpel, retort or electric coil. If the investigation be open and accurate and honest an unhealthy and keen here is no doubt of the verdict. Never was there such heart hunger for truth as there is today. Never did the world ask such questions and so many. Never was an age so interrogative. Never was there such a cry for evidence. Is it a healthy sign? Surely. Inquiry must not be crushed but, rather, courted.

"If my faith is false, I want to know it," said Bishop Berkeley. "I want to know it now." The hope immortal must not rest on what is perishable. The Bible is a book that welcomes the strongest light that can be focussed. There is nothing close or stifling in the temple of revealed truth, no bad ventilation. Its windows are open. The air is pure. Walking through it one feels as if he were inhaling a breeze from a mountain, a whiff from the ocean. Jesus trusts his message to a world of thinking men. Here it is in the open. There is no cloud, no concealment. It earns every language, sets its foot on every silvery shore. Its wings were made to flap in the irremediable. Such faith has our Lord in the indestructibility of what He came to teach that He charged His followers to proclaim it from the housetops. Acceptance and proof of God's word to the world is not a question of reasoning half the time but of seeing. That has been proven in science with all its "miracles." It is so in religion and the Christian acceptance. Personal experience and sensuous perception carry with them the logic unanswerable. What cared the man born blind that the Pharisees rejected Jesus? He knew He had made him to see. What cared Fulton for the laughs and jeers of his cynical countrymen when he proposed to take a party up the Hudson River on the Clermont? The great inventor smiled—wait and see. Then the paddle wheels began to turn.

Is not the best proof that which needs no proof? Self-evidence cannot be proven. It is its own proof. Religion has nothing to fear from criticism. It is an angel and thrives best where the light is strongest. It is for the rostrum and market place. It brooks no monopoly. It is the friend of the daylight. The world has tried to slake its spiritual thirst at the wells of criticism and position and a Christless society but today the wall comes back. "Give us back the Christianity we have lost. The cry of the world today is: "We would see Jesus not through a glass darkly, but the real Jesus."

What the world wants and must have is a personal Jesus. The world does not want, does not need Calvinism, nor the thirty-nine articles, nor the SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICE Saturday, 8 p.m.—Armories. PORT EDWARD FILLS ROLE

(Continued from Page 1) and it, therefore, qualifies a one of the major industries directly tributary to the city from which it is a mere eight miles distant. Nelson Bros. have developed in this plant an all the year-round operation with a minimum payroll of 125 and scaling up to 600 at the peak of the canning season which is right now. Modern six-line canning plant it packs as many as 5000 or 6000 cases daily and has an average annual output of 100,000 cases. The fleet which keeps it supplied with fish numbers up to 200 vessels, consisting mostly of the typical gillnet vessel but also including ten large packers. Of importance equal almost to the cannery is the reduction plant which turns out 4,500,000 pounds of meal and 150,000 gallons of oil per year. In the winter there is the canning of herring which has developed into a 100,000 case per year business. Yet another product are the fillets of soles and other flatfish and the handling of fresh halibut. Right now Nelson Bros. plant is in one of its busiest phases canning the sockeye and coho salmon which comes from the gillnets of the Skeena River and contiguous waters and the pinks which are moving in by packer these days from every direction—Masset, Ogden Channel, Whale and Matheson Channels, Gardner Canal, and even as far away as the Namu area, 200 miles distant. REGULAR BAPTIST SERVICES

Suspended during months of July and August. Will resume (D.V.) in New Church Building (Sixth and Hays Cove Circle), Sept. 5th next. (Phone 369).

Creed, nor the confessional. Nothing but the living God will satisfy. If our lives are not bright and happy with the glow of Christ's forgiveness and companionship, it is because we would not have it so. If you are in trouble, in need of pardon and new life, why not try Him? He will give you assurance and make you strong, clean and happy.

MASTER PORTABLE ELECTRIC GENERATOR PLANTS DRIVEN BY GASOLINE OR DIESEL FUEL ENGINES

Master Generator Plants are manufactured in 12 basic models from 500 watts to 17000 watts, and in 30 different types to meet all A.C. or D.C. power and lighting requirements, for operating a single tool or Master Floodlights, or for gangs of tools and lighting entire areas. They are available with push button starting; remote control or fully automatic control and with portable mountings. Master Gas-Electric Generator Plants are laboratory tested as a complete unit before shipping. The voltmeter, rheostat, and power connections are part of the generator. Anyone can put these plants into immediate operation quickly, simply by supplying gas and oil. No electrician's services are required—just plug power lines into the generator's standard receptacles on the smaller plants or the solderless connections on the larger plants. Master Portable Mountings are available in Wheelbarrow, Buggy and Trailer types. A full line of Master Floodlights are also available. (Obtain Master Catalog No. 815 for further information, illustrations and specifications.)
