Free Or Slaves

Governments of free nations operate under self-Democracy implies responsibilities on the individual as against the rights of the individual. In authoritarian states the individual has no inviolable rights and the power of the state is unlimited. Democracy, the system of the free, may in some ways seem more difficult than autocracy, the system of authoritarianism. Democracy imposes responsibilities of the individual if it is to operate with success. Sometimes those responsibilities are not assumed but the privileges of freedom are abused. In the autocracy, there are few, if any, individual responsibilities as to decision. It is a case of some supreme and relentless control doing the thinking and the subject falling in line. Days such as these are the time for individual responsibility. The testing may become more severe in short order. War or peace, individuals may soon again be called upon to exercise their responsibilities. If they measure up, our free way of living will endure and civilization will live on. The most of people are coming to realize what the last chapter may be if totalitarianism prevails.

"LITTLE EVA" BOOTH

Evangeline Booth, slight and often sickly little girl, born of a large family and accustomed to hardship and poverty as one of the costs of evangelical fervor of her great father, General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, conquered many early handicaps and lived to become one of the world's greatest spiritual leaders. Distinguished as orator, author, hymn writer and evangelist, she was the only woman to command the International Salvation Army of nearly four million persons. She was one of the world's greatest benefactors. Once, an interviewer asked General Booth what, in view of many honors and commendations, had been her really one great moment in an active life. She said it had occurred at a Leper Colony in Pothenkuruz, Southern India. Children there had been taught to sing one of the many hymns she wrote for The Army. A group of little leper girls, dressed in white, stood at the altar of the chapel, faces and hands badly scarred, and sang the hymn. When they came to the words "With all my heart, I do my part," they put their tiny scarred hands over their hearts. "That was it," she said, "that was my moment." Another interviewer, probing into her work and the tenets of her faith, was told this: "To begin with, we study the Bible. If you are looking for leadership find someone who has made the Bible the governing law of his life. I am no enemy of all that appears in the press and over the radio. I do not live, I do not want to live in an anchorite's cell. In The Army we study the Bible; we do not forget our spiritual vitamins. "Our second rule is prayer. Not a mere going-through-the-motions of piety. Prayer is a kind of partnership. It means that you are never playing a lone hand. You are always doing things with the help of someone else—an all-powerful Someone Else!"

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
EAGLE VS BEAR
EVERYBODY knows that one of the greatest power struggles of all times is going on right now and that the heavyweights in the rival blocs are the United States on one hand and the Soviet Union on the other. There are many levels on which one might consider this struggle. "The Eagle and the Bear," is a fine new book by Pennington Hall. It is published by Ives Washburn, New York. It is called "a primer in political philosophy." It shows how the eastern and western blocs clash on the basis of philosophy. "Can we, in any way, comprehend more fully why we of the west believe, and react and live as we do, why the Russians believe, and react, and live so differently?" The author believes we can. THE AUTHOR reasons, with lucidity and conviction, that there is a deeper chasm which divides the world today than mere power politics. "The west" is more than a name, he shows. There is one part of the world in which the world in which the thinking of all the people derives from certain religious, moral and philosophical ideas from a common watershed. It was made up of little rivers joining together ancient Greek beliefs, the Biblical teachings and western European history. The English, American and French revolution were all various expressions of the same general proposition — that human beings have certain NATURAL rights; that the well-being of the person, the individual, is the highest good. "We hold these truths to be self evident..." wrote Jefferson. But everything that he wrote, and almost everything that Tom Paine wrote or Patrick Henry declaimed was in fact re-written or otherwise de-tain common inheritances.

Most Women Are Working

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON — One of every three paid workers in Britain is a woman. The same goes for factory workers. In the case of agricultural workers, the woman-to-man ratio is 7 to 1. Nine of every 10 single, and one of every five married, women do paid work. Of these, nine out of 20 are unskilled workers, four are skilled, two or three do routine clerical work and four fill higher clerical, technical or professional positions.

These and other facts are contained in a first report on women prepared by the Economic Information Unit of the treasury. Mrs. L. S. Horton of the Economic Information Unit told the Canadian Press the report had been issued in response to an increasing demand by women's organizations throughout the country. WANTED FACTS More and more women were clamoring for facts and figures on export, productivity, employment, building and all economic factors with direct bearing on home life. Created to explain economic problems in clear and understandable language, the Unit (Continued on page 3)

Bet You Don't Know This About Advertising

Quiz No. 9
What does it cost to advertise a gallon of gasoline? Is it 2¢ a gallon? 5¢? 7¢?

Answer:
It costs less than 1/5¢ a gallon to advertise the most famous brands of gasoline. That's only half the story. Advertising lowers your cost two ways:
Cuts the selling costs. And by helping make mass production possible, lowers the production costs, too.
So advertising saves you many times the cost of that 1/5¢ per gallon.

Skeena Member Visiting Atlin
ATLIN — E. T. Applewhite, M.P. for Skeena, is spending the week in this camp visiting his constituents in town and on the creeks. He arrived by air on Saturday after having visited the Acadia Valley in Saskatchewan, Calgary, Edmonton and Whitehorse on the way here. Mr. Applewhite plans to leave here Saturday via Whitehorse and Prince George for Topley and Babine and is due back in Prince Rupert about August 1. Mrs. Applewhite is accompanying her husband on his visit here.

Electrical "Hands" make work light

Electricity is the handiest worker! It does everything better, more cleanly, more quickly.

An automatic toaster, for instance, gives you toast just the way each member of the family likes it... and does it while you are busy with something else.

And an automatic iron, thermostatically controlled, makes ironing a pleasure.

The more electrical "hands" you have to do your work, the more hours of leisure for you.

If you have a birthday or anniversary coming, why not tactfully suggest something from this list:

- AUTOMATIC TOASTERS
- REGULAR-TYPE TOASTER
- AUTOMATIC IRONS
- REGULAR-TYPE IRONS
- COFFEE MAKERS
- FOOD MIXERS
- VACUUM CLEANERS
