

FOOTBALL PLAN EARLY SEASON

Prince Rupert's first organized football league since the early years of the war will trot out on the Roosevelt Park field this summer as four teams battle it out for four venerable trophies. A meeting of the newly formed football association held in the Canadian Legion Hall Friday night, received entries from Booth Memorial High School, Canadian Legion, Army and Navy to compete in the summer schedule.

At stake during various parts of the season will be the Mobley Cup, the Stuart Shield, the Dominion Day trophy and the Gihuly Cup.

The league hopes to get in several games before May 24 when, if possible, they will play for the Mobley Cup and they plan to organize working parties to prepare the field in the near future.

City Engineer Stewart outlined the city's plan for pre-

Physical Prowess of Rup-Rec Trainees Thrills Spectators

Six Hundred Attend Second Annual
Rup-Rec Display At Civic Centre

Prince Rupert got a glimpse last night of the wide front of recreational activity which goes on inside its Civic Centre when more than 600 spectators packed the gymnasium to witness the second annual Rup-Rec display with participants totalling 300.

For some in the bleachers it was an enlightenment to know that, behind the glamorous front of basketball, diligent training in physical education has been carried on for age groups ranging from pre-school youngsters to creaking adults.

The mass display showed a cross section of the work which has been led by the Civic Centre staff aided by volunteer workers both in co-operation with the city schools and as independent Civic Centre programs.

BARBARA TO BECOME PRO

OTTAWA — Barbara Ann Scott, Ottawa's Olympic figure skating queen, said today that she had made no definite decision to turn professional. Questioned concerning a Prescott, Ontario, report which quoted Herbert Caldwell, wealthy manufacturer and friend of Miss Scott, as saying she expected to turn professional at the end of a series of benefit exhibitions now under way, Barbara Ann said there is no "change in the situation. She is still considering offers but has not definitely decided to turn professional, she said.

Caldwell made the "announcement," ostensibly on behalf of the comely 19-year old women's figure skating champion, that she had decided to turn professional and would probably enter moving pictures. Caldwell said he was directing Miss Scott's business affairs. She had had, he said, good offers from two movie producers from Hollywood who wish to star her in pictures. He added that a leading United States ice show promoter was also bidding for her services.

"I had no idea that so many used the Civic Centre," was the surprised comment of one spectator. "It must keep them going day and night to provide classes for all those people."

No attempt was made by instructors Neil Ross and Margaret Slinn or their volunteer helpers to "dress up" the classes for the benefit of the spectators. Routines were carried out just as though the trainees were in ordinary training periods so that an honest impression would be given.

The show lost nothing in spectator interest because of that policy.

The show was opened by Mayor Nora E. Arnold who recalled that last year's display had given her "a great surprise" because she had "no idea of the gymnastic ability and physical prowess of Prince Rupert's young people."

"I feel certain that with another year of training behind them, they will do even better," she said.
