The United Nations

THREE YEARS AGO tomorrow a war-torn world, fresh from the wounds and griefs of the most terrific and devastating conflict it had ever known, turned face forward in high resolve and confident hope that wars would be no more and that they would march ahead together in harmony and mutually-resolved security. In the United Nations Organization nations professing their faith in democracy and peace had conjoined to insure the development and perpetuation of their profession. The occasion of October 24, 1945, was the coming into force of the Charter of the United Nations. Significantly enough, it was the Union of Soviet Republics which deposited the twenty-ninth instrument of ratification, making the necessary number to render the Charter effective. The protocol was thereupon formally signed and proclaimed. The Charter had come into force.

Yes, three years have passed since that propitious and promising occasion. It would be an impractical idealist who would say that, on this anniversary, the progress of accomplishment of United Nations objectives has been satisfactory or that the outlook is even mildly roseate today. In fact, there is no gainsaying the fact that these are days of grave crisis for the peace of the world and for the very existence of the United Nations on the grand and brave scale which we had so confidently envisioned those three years ago.

But, if its accomplishments, through the domination of selfish nationalisms over the great principles of international goodwill and mutual security have been disappointing, the need for a strong United Nations is more apparent today than it ever was. Possibly, it may have to be a militant United Nations as well as a resolved and determined body. Some day, we hope it will be an efficient body even if regional defences may have to be planned meantime.

So as we dedicate ourselves to the task of U.N. perpetuation and effectiveness, let us work and hope and live for its principles. Even in these world outposts, we are as vitally concerned as any other part that war should not come again and that the United Nations should be a living and virile thing. We are vitally interested and we should be actively concerned. We may be only a few but it is the few that make the many. So, in that spirit, let us give thought to the day and govern ourselves accordingly in this time of trial and crisis which may well resolve the whole future of civilization.

And it is appropriate for us to reflect once again upon the resolution of the Charter:

"Determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and

"To reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal right of men and women and of nations large and small, and

"To establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and

"To promote social progress and better standards of life in large freedom, and for these ends,

"To practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors, and

"To unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, and

"To insure, by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods, that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest, and

"To employ international machinery for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all people, have resolved to combine our efforts to accomplish these aims.

BENEFIT DANCE YIELDS $450

Highly Successful Affair for Injured Football Player—Oscar Smith Wins Washer

Last evening's dance in aid of the Douglas Christison Benefit Fund at the Naval Drill Hall was an unqualified success with a capacity crowd in attendance. The financial returns were highly satisfactory, the net proceeds amounting to approximately $450.

Before the drawing for the door prize, J. S. Wilson, president of the Prince Rupert Football Association and general chairman, thanked all who had contributed to the success of the undertaking. He mentioned particularly the Four Dukes Orchestra, the members of which under Andy McNaughton had donated their services. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Sunberg and her helpers who had taken charge of the refreshment booths, to Mrs. H. Robb and Mrs. Foreman who had assisted at the door, to Magnus Halverson and Billy Sunberg at the check room and Eddie Dawes and Jack Eby for their fine co-operation. Harry Robb and Charlie Anderson of the C.P.O.'s Mess had done a big job. Alex Haig, in charge of ticket sales, had every detail taken care of and was ably helped by Pat Forman. To all, the executive extended thanks.

Mr. Wilson then introduced Ralph Smith, president of the Canadian Legion, who took charge of the drawing for a washing machine. Jimmy Kelly gave the barrel the last few turns and then charming Margie Brain drew the ticket. It was number 269 and was held by O. T. Smith. The good news was telephoned to him.

Another pleasing feature was the announcement by Mr. Wilson that he had just been handed a cheque for $30 from the 120th Battery, R.C.A. to be added to the benefit fund. This money had been ear-marked for a banquet for the Battery football team which had won all four trophies in the football competitions this season. However, the players and officers had very sportingly voted to forego the banquet and turn the money over to the Benefit Fund.

Dancing continued till 1:30 when proceedings came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

SATURDAY SERMON

SECURITY OF FAITH

(By MAJOR W. YURGENSEN, Salvation Army)

That good thing which was committed unto thee keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us.—2 Timothy, Chapter 1, Verse 14. (Moffatt's translation: "Keep the great securities of faith intact.")

If our heart and minds are to be at peace we must have security. We must be free from fear or danger, be safe and put beyond the hazard of losing or not receiving. We all strive to be secure, and rightly so, to have freedom from poverty, sickness, unemployment and war, but do we strive equally to keep the great securities of faith intact?

Of all securities which we value the most in this life it is the security of faith which we are in constant danger of losing through temptations. But God is nearer than temptations. The might of evil spirits may be strong but God's hold is stronger.

Job was a man whose faith was tried and shaken to its very foundation but he rose from the ashes of his burnt-out properties, from the ashes of well meaning but misguided friendship, from the ashes of blighted hopes, and from the ashes of heart-rendering disappointments. Yet, he rose, although a marked man, not only from the boils he had suffered with but a marked man suffering from the malignant power of Satan. He stood in the world of ashes and lifted his hand towards Heaven and cried out with his whole heart: "I know that my Redeemer liveth." God is faithful. He will not suffer you to be tempted above that which ye are able but will, with the temptation, also make a way of escape. He is a powerful Father, and out of this divine enfolding comes endless security. "They shall never perish."

We are in danger of losing our faith through sin but sin shall not have dominion over us. We belong more to God than to sin.

persecutions, temptations and difficulties—but Christ is mightier than them all and, so long as His followers hide in the hollow of His hand, he is absolutely safe. Christ's loving presence is the guarantee of all good and against all evil. Our greatest security is our own personal experience of God, an experience that has made a difference, the change that has been brought about in our lives through the assurance we have met with God. "Keep the securities of faith intact." How can we do it? Only by abiding, not struggling or striving, just trusting Him for present power, trusting Him to subdue all inward corruption, resting in the conscious joy of a complete salvation, a salvation from all sin, willing that He should be truly supreme.

The great Missionary, Hudson Taylor, wrote these words to his sister: "Only by thinking of all that Jesus is and all that He is for us. His life, His death, Himself, as revealed to us in His
