MUSEUM BOARD ANNUAL MEET

Board of Directors of the Museum of Northern British Columbia heard reports on last year's operations, elected new officers and laid plans for the coming season at their annual meeting held in the Civic Centre last night.

The Board set June 1 as the opening date this year and re-appointed C. E. Cullin to the post of Curator which he has held for the last two years.

During the election of officers it was decided that appointments to the directorship should be invited from the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Business and Professional Women's Club both of which have shown active interest in the museum in the past. In anticipation of these appointments, two positions were left open on the five-man board.

New officers and directors are:
President, F. E. Anfield.
First Vice-President, J. K. McLeod.
Second Vice - President, J. Harry Black.
Secretary, Canon Basil S. Proekter.
Treasurer, J. C. Gilker.
Directors—Gordon F. Forbes,

have it housed in the museum this summer.
The collection, composed of more than 50 finely carved pieces, has been for years one of the major examples of native artifact in the museum.

Retiring President Theo Colart reported outstanding problems and events during the last year, listing the renovation of the upper floor of the museum and the raising of two large totem poles at the front of the building as major changes.

Secretary Basil S. Proekter told the meeting that the museum is in process of losing the argolyte totem pole collection which was the property of the late George Cunningham, and suggested that pending its eventual disposal by the present owner, a request be made to

Will you send up a pound of Diamonds and a dozen strings of Pearls?
Of course it is ridiculous—No one buys jewellery by the pound or by the dozen.
Jewellery is something that must be examined, compared and selected according to individual taste.
