Charged With Theft of Watch

A city man, Clarence Green, was arrested Saturday morning after a woman came into the police office and told police that Green stole a wrist watch from her in a downtown rooming house. He was charged with theft and remanded by Magistrate W. D. Vance. The timepiece is valued at $75.

DAYLIGHT TIME ACCEPTED HERE

Daylight saving time became effective at midnight Saturday but that does not mean everyone recognized it. There were some who retired earlier with never a thought of it, even when winding a watch. But by Sunday breakfast they were aware of the change. Standard time remains as usual on the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Would Put Harvey On National Body

J. T. Harvey, former president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia and long active in Chamber of Commerce affairs, is being proposed by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce for the post of a provincial director on the national executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Support of the Associated Boards will be sought which requires the seconding of two other members.

Ray Reflects . . . and Reminisces

The Charles M. Hays Hotel! Had there never been a ship called the Titanic there would have been a hotel in Prince Rupert long before this. And it would have had another name.

Alaska was purchased by the United States more than eighty years ago for $7,200,000 and since then, Washington has received from the territory, in wealth, four hundred times that amount. Has any other deal in Yankee history ever made a profit like that? And it is still making it. Yet, Alaska, it would seem, has no business in presuming to become a State of the Union.

No one seems able to define Communism but, if a fellow says a Red is someone who feels he's been getting the small end of everything as long as he's lived and is as sore as -- about it, perhaps it won't be making such a bad guess.

How could there have ever been such a thought? The British Hymnal has been revised and it's decided to drop "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." And June a few weeks away!

Pete LaPorte is among those who has a card from Arnur Brooksbank, visiting in Rome. An ancient city, a city of endless interest and instruction, a busy city—a city to remember.

There are presumably truthful statements hard to believe and one is the recent release from Victoria that Prince Rupert's population is 9,200. In order to ease this gnawing scepticism the only thing left to do now is discover the census taker and have it out with him.

Speaking of advertising Prince Rupert, is there another town in North America where a youth can go out in his row boat, and return home with a forty pound red salmon fresh from the salt water, greatly to his own pride and delight of the family?

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—The "flying saucers" reported seen over the city recently have turned out to be nothing more than gas-filled balloons. A garage mechanic, who released the balloons filled with natural gas, compared notes with a saleswoman who had seen "saucers" and proved her story wrong.

Imagine a resin and oil paint that mixes with water, that has no paint odour—that you can apply, if you wish, with windows closed! No wonder the Stevens are delighted—there's never been a paint like Kem-Tone! A real oil paint that you can wash again and again.

MR. J. L. STEVENS, 112 Donlands Ave., Toronto, Ont.
