EAST-WEST FEUD PITS GERMAN AGAINST GERMAN - Demonstrators of the East German Communist youth organization, left, jeer a police man who stands just across the border in West Berlin after the young Reds had been balked in efforts to storm the border. There have been many such demonstrations and rallies along the line that separates the western and eastern zones of Berlin since the threat was made that 500,000 Communist youth would march across the border into West Berlin on May 28. Western auth orities say they are prepared to deal with any such eventuality.
