McELROY IS NOW FAVORED

Canadian Amateur Golf in Semi-Finals Today

HAMILTON, Ont.—Two Canadians and two Americans—one the defending champion, Frank Stranahan of the United States—survived two rounds of match play in the Canadian Amateur golf championship yesterday and made certain of a Canada-United States finish tomorrow.

Matched in the two semi-final brackets today are:

Walter McElroy of Vancouver vs. Joe Stoddard of Hamilton.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo vs. Larry Dana of Bradford, Pennsylvania.

These are meeting in 36 holes of match play today and the winners play another 36 holes on Saturday for the title. McElroy was one down to Stoddard at the first hole but was one up at half way mark. Stranahan was also one up at the half way mark.

Blond Walter McElroy is favored by some observers to win his way into the final tomorrow following a convincing four and three win over long-hitting Bill Thompson of Guelph yesterday.

McElroy was two up at the ninth hole turn and then won the tenth and fifteenth to take the match. Later McElroy pushed 19-year old Gerry Kesseler of Kitchener aside two up.

Two years ago McElroy was runner-up to Kesseler by one stroke in the final of the Canadian junior golf championship.

STRIKES BEGAN SPLIT

The uneasy alliance became definitely strained towards the end of last year when Italy was threatened with paralysis by extensive strikes. Non-Communist elements of that time alleged the unions were being used purely as a political and revolutionary weapon by the communists.

In the years prior to the coming of the railway, interviews could often lead to outstanding yarns. Celebrities (real as well as alleged) kept coming and going and, generally speaking, relished the experience. Sometimes they performed the interviewing.

Now and then, one would indulge in a bit of banter or bypass. It was always well received. Frequently there would be repartee and the exchanges contributed to the pleasure of routine occasions. A stranger, for example, observed one day he regarded it as a privilege to meet fiction writers for that was what he understood the gentlemen of the press to be.

Norman, who was a shade under the average height, wore glasses and was more Scottish than Loch Lomond, became known as "Wee Mac." A department of the News printed special matter written by himself under the heading "Through My Spectacles." He chose a wide range of subjects, the more local the better and while it could not be classified as news of the moment, what was read never failed to arouse interest and amusement.

It was during later years in Prince Rupert that Wee Mac married, and the News printed a report full worthy of the event. Eventually Mr. and Mrs. Macintosh returned overseas. Both were living in London during the first and second Great Wars and were through the various bombings and blitzing of those unforgettable years. He was in the publicity department of the C.P.R. and Mrs. Mac devoted much of her time to varied duties in helping combat the common foe. Experiences have been varied and memorable but it may be taken for granted that they retain fond memories of early Prince Rupert, when both themselves and the new seaport of the North Pacific were young.

The April elections gave much stimulus to opposition sectors in the labor union, particularly since these sectors now form the new coalition government of Signor Alcide de Gasperi.
