United Nations Face Gravest Crisis As Chinese Communists Invade Korea

Capitals Are Worried; Special Session of U.N. Assembly Asked

LAKE SUCCESS (CP)—The United States today called for a special meeting of the Security Council of the United Nations on Wednesday to consider the intervention of Red China in the Korean war. The action came after General Douglas MacArthur today formally notified the Security Council that Chinese Communist forces were now fighting United Nations troops in Korea. The charge was made in a special report transmitted to Warren R. Austin, chief of United States delegates. Sources close to General MacArthur said that the start of a third world war might well hinge on Red China's reply to the United Nations commander's special report on events in Korea.

Chinese Communists by name. American troops in northwest Korea recovered half a mile of ground lost to the Communists and fought bitterly for no gain in the northwest against the enemy by then identified by MacArthur as Chinese Reds.

An extraordinary communique branded the Communist move from Manchuria into Korea as "one of the most offensive acts of international lawlessness" in history.

The tense situation is viewed with concern in world capitals. The United Nations faces the gravest crisis in its five-year history—what to do about intervention of the Chinese Communists in the Korean war.

A United Nations decision to label the Red Peiping government aggressors and order a full scale military effort to drive its troops out of Korea conceivably could touch off a chain of events that might lead ultimately to another world war. It is known, however, that the United States is trying desperately to avoid spreading the Korean war.

Pending clarification of the American situation (this was before the United States called for the special meeting of the Assembly) diplomats were cautious in speculating about possible United Nations moves. The American request would bring the whole question of Chinese intervention into debate before the Assembly.

U.N. TIGHTEN DEFENCES
Meantime the United Nations troops tightened their defences in the face of strong attacks as General MacArthur charged that "alien Communist forces" had moved down from Manchuria when the United Nations had the Korean war all but won. The flow of fresh Chinese troops flushed new life into the shattered North Koreans. MacArthur did not at first mention the

UNCLE SAM AT POLLS— Voters To Decide Some Odd Issues in U.S. Election

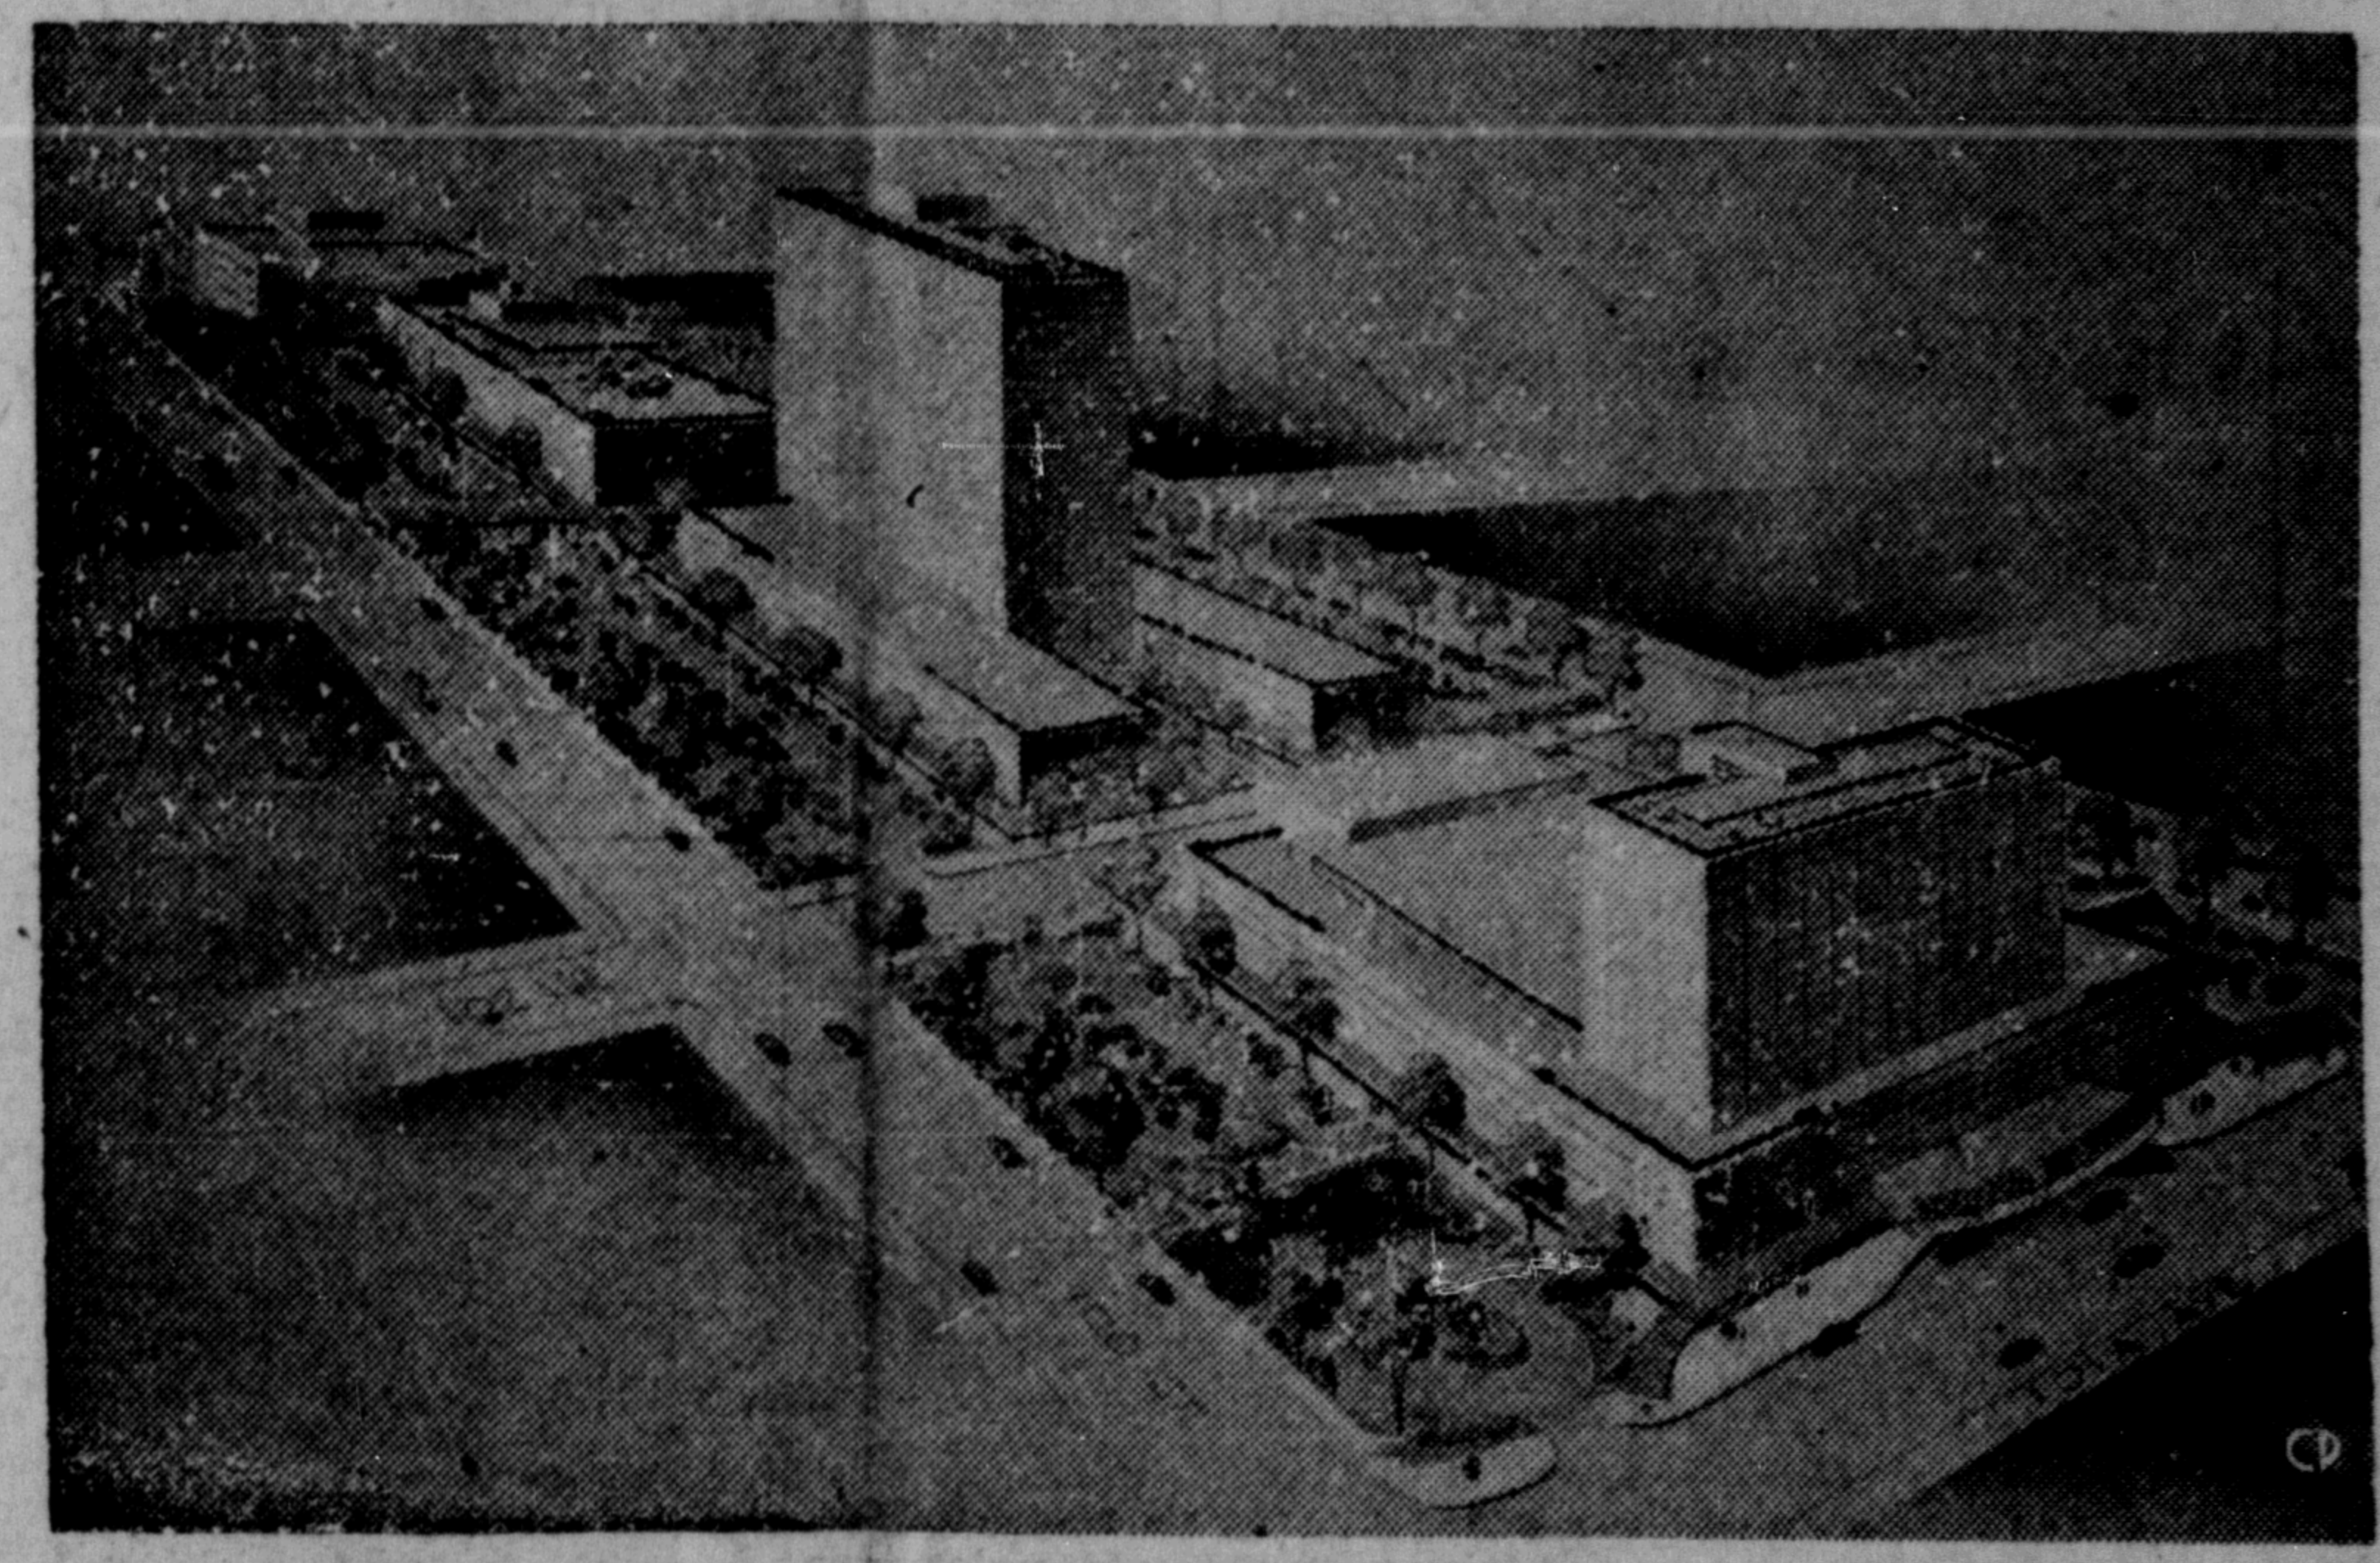

NEW YORK (CP)—The United States elects a new Congress tomorrow. But many local issues also will be decided. Chinese Feud, Woman Dead

VANCOUVER (CP)—Toll of a long-standing Chinese feud, one woman is dead and one is injured. The feud, believed to have been born in the Orient, reached a climax last night and resulted in the death of one of the participants.

Found in a vacant house in the East End was Mrs. James Lee, wife of a cabaret owner. She is believed to have committed suicide. Poison capsules are reported to have been found beside the body. Meanwhile, Mrs. Lee's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lee Yuk Lim, is in hospital suffering from head wounds and a broken wrist. She had, apparently, been beaten with a hammer.

A few hours later police found the body of Mrs. Lee. D. Klassen, arrested Saturday and charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, appeared in magistrate's court this morning. He was remanded for trial until November 14.

MIRACLE MILE—This is an artist's sketch of the proposed $25,000,000 city centre for Edmonton which voters turned down recently by a small margin. The scheme was proposed by New York financial interests, who sought a tax-free, 69-year lease on the four-block area and agreed to pay an annual rental of $50,000. The city would have had a share in the profits and become owners of the property on termination of the lease. (CP PHOTO)

She was 92 years of age, was born in Montreal and lived in Calgary from 1900 until ten years ago when she moved to California. Her husband died in 1944.

Mrs. Christie's death was sudden. Despite her advanced age, she had telephoned to her son here only ten days ago. There are three other sons—Llewellyn Christie of Pittsburgh; Joseph Christie of Los Angeles, and George Christie of Trail. Mrs. F. Burnett of Calgary is a daughter, Lt.-Gen. She was a subscriber to the Daily News and not long ago wrote a letter to the office congratulating this paper on an editorial.

Trained Populace Can Survive Atom Attack

MONTREAL (CP)—Civilization can protect itself from the bogey of present days—an atomic attack. That's the opinion of P. W. Swain, editor of the States magazine Power and a spectator at the Rimini atomic tests. He disclosed his findings at a recent Montreal meeting of the Institute of Power Engineers.

It is his belief that a well-trained populace can survive an atomic attack. His explanation: "First, atom bombs would be used only against targets of tremendous importance. This would rule out a general attack against all civilian points. "If a bomb exploded, there are three things that can kill you. They are shock wave, gamma rays and heat flash. "The blast, or shock wave, kills indirectly by pummeling the populace with falling buildings and flying debris. The answer to this is shelters. "The heat flashes last three seconds and anyone within a mile of the explosion will suffer badly burned hands and faces. But even a shadow can serve as some protection from this, and a well-trained populace could be trained to duck—to fall with their backs to the flash and with their hands and faces covered. "The gamma rays are the far-reaching killers. Anyone closer than 4200 feet to the explosion will die—unless protected by at least 40 feet of concrete. Beyond that 4200-foot border fatality from gamma ray drops sharply."

Mr. Swain said he doubted whether atom power would be used for anything but bombs. It might have a limited use in the power field, but right now it appeared as though man had harnessed atomic power only to treat himself to new lessons in destruction.
