Pride In Good Jobs Urged

MONTREAL—Donald Gordon, C.M.G., chairman and president, Canadian National Railways, this week urged the delegates to the 20th annual meeting of the C.N.R. Union-Management Co-operative Movement, Maintenance of Way Department, to have pride in the performance of their work. "The individual is always the most important unit of any organization," he said. "The railway requires the faithfulness and skill of its employees for the welfare of the whole organization the company's slogan of 'courtesy and service' can only be made a reality by the action of the individual," Mr. Gordon added.

Present at the meetings were the chiefs of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees representing 21,416 men of the company's track forces. The meetings, which are to last two days, are being presided over by Barton Wheelwright, chief engineer of the Canadian National system.

Walter S. Thompson, director of Public Relations, reminded the delegates that these Maintenance of Way men were working in little groups over 33,045 miles of C.N.R. track, the greatest railway network in existence and sufficient to encircle the earth at its equator. Of this, 24,178 miles were main line or first track.

The big blast will be supervised by Fred Bergman, powder specialist, and C. A. Berner, divisional superintendent, and R. C. Davidson, divisional engineer, will be on hand to keep a watchful eye. Mr. Berner left this afternoon for the scene.

A second storm now entering the Gulf of Alaska is expected to be causing intermittent rain and fresh southerly winds over the north coast region by tomorrow afternoon. Under the influence of clear skies temperatures should fall rapidly tonight with frost to be expected at many points while tomorrow the maximum temperatures should again rise to the high sixties at south coastal and central interior points.

It's been declared illegal there. A Dominion-wide survey shows that, while there has been some opposition to the change, this attitude has not been particularly marked.
