Infantile paralysis handed 14 heavyweight Danny Sewell his 13 first knockout in 1948. Boxing 11 followers bade farewell to a budding young champion. Doctors told him he would never o box again. Walking was out of the question for three years. But Danny now is making a remarkable comeback. From Los An-2 geles, where he was sent for 0 treatment, British fight fans hear he can walk without a stick. He can drive an automobile. His affected left foot has the strength to lifht 50

With this progress behind him Danny plans to start training under the supervision of Bill Daly, manager of American heavyweight Lee Savold.
