Massei Shrimp Cannery Active

Queen Charlotte Cannery plant at Massei, which has been having a good season putting up a big pack of shrimps taken from the cool waters of upper Massei Inlet, is closing down December 15 for a month. It will re-open about January 15.

After having previously been engaged on crabs, the plant has been putting up shrimps for the past six weeks and has been making large and regular shipments of the product.

Two boats have been engaged in the shrimp fishing—Sam Simpson's Tow Hill and Alex Wylie's Argonaut Hill. The shrimp are frozen and put up in one-half pound and one-pound packages.
