SHIPPING

Mr. Justice Clyne then turned to the subject of Canadian shipping industry. During the war Canada had become the fourth largest shipping nation in the world.

After the war the government had disposed of a fleet which had cost $270,000,000 for $200,000,000 and had created a shipping industry. However, it became impossible to compete with Canadian operated ships at a cost of $800 per day compared with $400 for United Kingdom ships.

Factors which His Lordship gave as causing "the axe to fall" had been devaluation and the strike of seamen with their Communist-dominated organization which had tied up Canadian ships throughout the world.

Here, the judge said in passing, was an illustration of the methods which Communists had, were and would adopt.

Now Canada was faced with the laying-up of 200 ships with a loss of employment and money invested in ships and there was still the object of maintaining the shipping industry in national defence.

The solution of the problem had been reached in the conversion of Canadian ships to the United Kingdom flag, something to be regretted but which appeared to be the only alternative.

The speaker described the arrangement for the pooling of earnings and division of disbursements under existing exchange conditions as the operation of ships continued.

Under the Atlantic Pact, the ships were available to the requirements of the member nations in peace or war according to their requirements.

President A. J. Dominato was in the chair and the speaker was introduced by G. A. Hunter and thanked by W. J. Scott. Congratulations were extended on his elevation to the bench and welcome back to Prince Rupert expressed. (His Lordship started out in the practice of the legal profession here twenty-three years ago.)

Luncheon guests were Al Lucas of Vancouver, H. G. Perry of Prince George, T. W. Brown, K.C., J. T. Harvey and George Cook.

Men Hosts at Church Dinner

An enjoyable dinner meeting of First Presbyterian Church congregation was held in the church hall last evening.

The dinner had been prepared by the men while the ladies of the congregation had been invited as special guests. Many were the favorable remarks of the culinary capabilities of the men.

After the dinner community singing was enjoyed and interesting moving pictures were shown by Dr. Duncan Black.

This was followed by the general business of the evening with reports of the renovation and painting of the church and manse being received and discussed.

An inspiring address was delivered by Rev. Dr. E. A. Wright, the minister, who urged all Presbyterians to get behind the work at hand. He declared that he and Mrs. Wright were very happy to be here and a lot of good work could be done if all would do their part.

A formal call was then presented to Dr. Wright, this call being unanimously endorsed by all present.

Gordon Fraser had arranged the decorations, and flowers for the tables, and all looked very attractive.

George Murray acted as chair-
