GIRLS HAPPY AGAIN—

Principal Hurst Lifts Long Dress Ban - Gloves, High Neckline

(By Daily News Staff Writer)

The girls of the class of '48 are wearing a "new look" these days as they go about their scholastic duties. Although the look has to do with dresses it is on the young faces the change has taken place. For a time this winter the girls wore very long faces at the thought of wearing short-skirted dresses at the June exercises. But spirits and faces went up when Principal Allan Hurst changed his mind to aye on the question of floor-length formals.

When the young ladies parade their charms during the graduation ceremonies, the affair should be a sweeping success for they will be attired in formal, floor-length gowns featuring the "New Look." But if the skirts are to be low, the same thing won't apply to the gown tops. Off-the-shoulder styles will be barred and if the gown has a low neck line it will be up to the wearer to make some changes by adding a lace collar or some such attachment depending on the girl's imagination or creative ability. Long gloves will also be worn for the big event.

One of the arguments against long dresses was the expense. Some of last year's grads paid $30 or $40 and more for a formal gown and haven't had occasion to wear it since. On the other hand the girls think that, while a short white dress may not cost as much as a long one, it is just about as impractical. Now that they have the green light many of the girls are planning to buy the materials and tailor their own gowns. Another point against the long formals was unless the boys of the class wore tuxedos, they would be improperly dressed, conventionally speaking. In the opinion of one of the girls, if they waited until all the boys acquired tuxedos, they would be passed worrying about graduation gowns, at least their own.

LETTERBOX

NORWAY STILL RATIONED

Editor, Daily News: Allow me to correct an account in your paper of January 22 regarding statements made by me at the Gyro luncheon last Wednesday.

There still is rationing in Norway. I stated, however, that during my visit to Norway last summer, there was no rationing on fish and vegetables and for this reason there was always plenty of food. Likewise clothing is still strictly rationed but the situation is much improved and everybody seems to be well dressed.

Regarding the devastation and scorched earth policy in the northern part of Norway, this was done by the Germans as they withdrew before the Norwegian and Russian forces.

Thank you, Mr. Editor. Dr. Jens Munthe
