Basketball

IN THESE DAYS of worry and uncertainty, it is fitting that a lot of us should turn our attention to complete diversion on occasion as a tonic so that we may be refreshed and invigorated for the serious tasks at hand. That is where good, clean, well organized sport comes in and that is why we welcome the opening of a new basketball season in Prince Rupert tonight.

Keeping scores of young folk busy in active play and attracting the interest and enthusiasm of thousands of spectators, basketball has long since been the leading winter sport in Prince Rupert, providing wholesome and healthy diversion for a large section of the population, both old and young.

And our success in provincial competition has also brought us a measure of good publicity in spite of the fact that we may feel the Vancouver press has been inclined to play us down some times.

Yes, without basketball through the long winter months, Prince Rupert would be a dull place.

So, all out tonight!

OUR RADIO CASE

THE CASE for Prince Rupert and the central interior district for better and more readily available radio broadcasting service has been ably presented in the comprehensive brief of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia to the Royal Commission on Development of Arts, Letters and Sciences.

The brief asks for setting up of booster stations at Vanderhoof, Burns Lake, Smithers and Terrace so that network programs may be received by the sets in those immediate areas, also that the full network programs be broadcast from the stations at Prince Rupert and Prince George.

The authorities have given the excuse that lines were not available to meet requests of this kind in certain parts of Canada but certainly that cannot be said for Prince Rupert and the central interior since the lines are already here and all that is necessary is to have the authority to limit the programs from the transmitters.

Probably no more reasonable requests have been made to this commission than those from the Associated Boards of Central B. C. and we have no doubt that they will be passed along with a blessing.

ALUMINUM DEAL

THOSE WERE rather serious charges that Senator Thomas Reid made in connection with the negotiations between Aluminum Co. of Canada and the provincial government for water power rights in British Columbia. They are of particular concern to this part of the country which has been counting upon the establishment of an aluminum industry to play a prominent part in the impending industrial development of the area.

We suppose that Senator Reid has been very careful of his ground before making charges which cannot but help to have an adverse effect upon the fruition of the whole project.

Doubtless, the provincial government itself will have something to say about the matter to throw a different angle of light on the impression which has been left by Mr. Reid.

IT WORKS TOO—With an old Model T generator, a 12-volt storage battery, $35 and several evenings' work, Walter Foster of Toronto built this electric car for his three-and-a-half-year-old daughter, Barbara. Here Mr. Foster checks over the power plant while Barbara the envy of her playmates, looks on.

SATURDAY SERMON

JESUS WENT ABOUT

(By Rev. Lawrence G. Sieber, First United Church)

Cornelius invited Peter to come to his house and talk with him and his friends. Peter was impressed by the reception given him and by the eagerness of the household to hear what he had to say. So Peter started where anyone of us would start with experience. He noted how they, not being Jews, desired to know the Gospel. He spoke of the things they knew and then talked of Jesus "who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed of the devil."

This is what Jesus did. There was nothing very startling about it all. He simply did ordinary things out of kindness and concern for his fellows. People are ordinary and their needs are so common. God, who made man in his own image desired for his children the best things. Seeing they needed an example more than many things God sent Jesus into our world and he went about doing good.

Jesus didn't stay at home all the time. He went about. His idea of the religious life was not to live apart from his people. The monastic idea is incomplete. We must mix with others, else

LETTERBOX

PICTURE RECALLS MEMORIES
Editor, Daily News:

On your page of pictures of world events on October 27 was shown in one group, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, only member of the United States Communist party's ruling board who is now at liberty.

Forty years ago Elizabeth Gurley Flynn was as well known in Spokane and the Kootenays as I am in Prince Rupert. On more than one occasion I was chairman of her meetings in Rossland before a Communist party was ever heard of in the United States or in Canada. She was at that time organizer of the Independent Workers of the World (IWW) and led the free speech fight in Spokane in 1909. A crusader and comrade of "Big Bill" Haywood, she was known in those days as "Joan of Arc, girl orator." At the same time W. W. B. McInnis, later a judge and now police magistrate in Vancouver, was a boy orator.

It seems such a short time ago. GEORGE E. CASEY.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Soviet Russia is subscribing for papers published in Northern British Columbia, and presumably, in Alaska as well. We can see picture Uncle Joe, at the end of a hard day, long boots off and with pipe drawing freely, sitting back getting the low down on weddings, basketball, council meetings and personal notes in Prince Rupert and such places.

Someone, posing as an alarmist, asks nervously what has become of all the women? Speaking offhand we'll say all that's needed to bring the situation back to normalcy is a dozen or so honest to God bargain sales and a few weeks of clear and sunny weather. There will be a gal every ten or fifteen feet.

The heaviest twenty-four hour rainfall in the history of the British Columbia coast, according to official records, took place on November seventeenth 1917. This happened at Pr---. No, not there. It occurred at Swanson Bay.

It was not until J. C. Sykes of South Carolina was carving meat, the other day, that he discovered Nature had intended him for a surgeon, instead of just another butcher. The knife slipped and he cut an incision that was perfect for the removal of his appendix. That organ was removed, there being no vital reason or it, and anyway it would have been a crime to allow such a flawless incision to have healed without being put to use. And as for Mr. Sykes? Well, he can't help feeling just a bit superior to all other butchers of his acquaintance.

Perhaps the only perfect gift that we can give to the world is the gift of ourselves at our best. What do we live for, if it is not to make life less difficult for others—Safety News

MISS GRESGOE

Familiar Kriesler pieces "Liebeslied" and "Liebesfreud," brought the program to a fine conclusion and Miss Grescoe then met the demand for more with a lucid rendering of Schubert's "Ave Maria."

FINE ACCOMPANIST

There was a second outstanding artist on the stage in the person of her eminent accompanist, Leopold Mittman, one time colleague of Fritz Kreisler and a pianist of primary rank.

Throughout the program his complementing and support of Miss Grescoe and his resourceful understanding were to be noted.

There was a tangible expression of appreciation when little Anita Rogerson gracefully presented Miss Grescoe with a beautiful bouquet of carnations as the audience expressed its approval of the gesture by their applause.

The usherettes for the evening were the Misses Honora Silver-sides, president of the Women's Business and Professional Club.

Mrs. S. J. Hunter, Miss Frances Cross, Miss Joan Cross, Miss Evy Rivett, Miss Frances Partridge and Miss Netta McLeod.

Following the concert, members of the Civic Centre executive and the Women's Business and Professional Club, which assisted in the presentation, entertained Miss Grescoe and Mr. Mittman in the ladies' lounge. This morning, Mayor Nora Arnold was their hostess before they left by plane on their return to Vancouver.

That one, and finally returned to their own gate. "When shall we begin to preach?" asked the brother. "My child," said Francis, we have been preaching as we were walking, we have been seen, looked at, our behaviour noticed and so we have delivered our morning sermon. It is no use that we preach anywhere unless we preach as we walk! There is need today for good preachers. But there is a far greater need for Christian living—for men and women and youth who by life and character tell others that they have been with Jesus, and learned of him. Jesus went about doing good.

ways burning itself out, but it catches fire again every time a child is born—G. B. Shaw.

Now that the novelty of being President has worn off and there is no necessity to court goodwill, Mr. Truman is becoming irritated with the press of the United States. It's like that, sometimes. Perhaps he is unable to recall it was a newspaperman who steered him into national politics in the first place and that a friendly press had something to do with landing him in Washington in the last election. And incidentally it might be said the press can be critical, without being unfriendly, which is worth remembering—by a public servant as well as private citizen.
