perforated tears suggested a sharp metallic instrument had been used. The instrument was sharp, but not necessarily knife-edged.
The marks could not have been made by fingernails.

To Crown Prosecutor T. W.
Brown's query as to what part hot water and soap would play in an illegal operation Defence Attorney Dohm objected on the grounds that he had no notice the question would be asked until shortly before the trial began. He finally allowed the question.

Dr. Greene replied that he had consulted a text book, in which he had utter confidence and that the book said it was a relatively prominent practice among professional abortionists to use a solution of soap and water or corbolic acid or phenol and water. A syringe could have been sharp enough to cause the superficial tears. On being asked whether water used for such a purpose should be cold, warm, hot or boiling, the doctor said it should be quite warm. "Nobody would be foolish enough to use boiling water." He said that "abortion" would be synonymous with "miscarriage" when used in the sense it was used in the charge. Asked why castile soap would be used, witness said it was an exceptionally pure soap.

She could not have performed the operation herself. He found the organs of the body to be healthy. Specimens of parts of the body were removed and sent away for examination.

On cross examination, Dr.
Greene said he was satisfied the marks he had referred to were caused by a hard substance of the consistency of metal. It need not necessarily be metal. It would have to have a sharp edge.
He had heard of women aborting themselves. He said he could not state exactly the cause of death. He said the trace of blood on the external parts was hardly visible. His estimate of the length of time the woman had been dead was based on accepted principles. It was an estimate.
Mr. Dohm asked the doctor if he had a cold that day and received the answer "no." He quoted from evidence given at the preliminary hearing. "It was unfortunate that I and all the police who were assisting had colds." Dr.
Greene denied he had said he had a cold.

On questioning, Dr. Greene said he had never examined the girl alive. He had got her history from doctors who had treated her. He had examined the body.

Vivian Lorraine Brochu said that she heard of the death of a young woman about April 18.
About ten days previously she had been talking to accused on the corner of Third Avenue and Fulton Street. Jabour had asked her to buy a syringe. He said it was for a friend who was in trouble. She refused to buy the syringe. On cross examination she stated definitely it was a syringe she had been asked to buy.
There was no mention of Betty Young. Jabour had helped out lots of people in the city financially. Nothing was bought as far as she was concerned.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

The world series is getting under way. It's starting about the same time the other world series (in Korea) is coming to an end.

The Canadian dollar is getting away from the habit of gazing in the general direction of the cellar. Instead, it's climbing toward a place in the sun. Any way, that's the objective, and a word of encouragement from Britain does not harm. There Canada's position is called wise, as well as bold, and the suggestion is made that London follow the same example, as a move to free the pound.

Two grandsons of Louis Riel, each of whom served in the second World War are in uniform again, being one of the first to enlist in the Canadian Army special force for Korea or anywhere else. In the second World War, one was in the army for five years, and the other was wounded twice. Little did Canada in 1885, dream of what would be transpiring 65 years later.

A thousand houses for veterans renting from $33 to $45 will be seen in Vancouver in course of time. Some will have two bedrooms, and some as many as four.
Here will be a community of itself with everything available from shops to churches. It will be a small city within a city, along with advantage of attractive views. Somewhere, evidently, a good business head has been studying the housing problem.

ALUMINUM HAS GROWN TO

CANADIAN LIVING

Shipsaw No. 2, Quebec
a lake on a hill Shipsaw - Control Room
transmitting the power

"Daddy, what makes it hum?"

"HARNESSED RAINDROPS, SONNY!" It's a true answer . . .

In Shipsaw powerhouse you are awed by the hum of twelve gigantic generators. They are driven by rain and snow which fill Lake St. John and pour down the Saguenay River.

The water is channelled to a man-made lake on top of a hill. Then it rushes down tunnels chiselled through solid rock to dash against turbines like the model at which the boy is peering — but weighing 50 tons.

The turbines drive generators. The electricity they generate speeds to nearby Arvida. There it refines shining aluminum out of bauxite from British Guiana.

Over 1000 Canadian companies form aluminum into all sorts of useful articles. All this means work for Canadians. This country supplies nothing but the raindrops — and the brains, hands and enterprise to harness them.

The hum in the power house at Shipsaw is a hymn of progress.
It is a sound of Canada's standard of living going up . . .
