Fire on Tuesday of this week did extensive damage to the en gine room and galley of the haliut boat Mae West, Capt. O. J. Hanson, as it lay moored at the foot of Nicola Street in Coal Harbor, Vancouver. There was no one aboard the yessel at the time. After having been tied up to for the season, it was being fit-I ted up to start the season's operthat it was The fact moored at the outside of two other vessels made fire fighting somewhat difficult.
