Cost of policing Prince Rupart probably will jump another $4,000 this year following discussions Thursday afternoon between the city's police committee and Commissioner John Shirras of the B.C. provincial police.

Recommendations from the committee will be made to city council when it meets on February 23 and, if last year's action by council is paralleled this tear, the new contract sought by the provincial police will be approved.

Yesterday's discussions centred on a notice sent to the city onto, publisher of New Liberty magazine, and Harold Dingman, last fall by the Police Commis-
