Freight Rates

AFTER SOME DELAYS, the debate in the House of Commons on freight rates is drawing to a close. It has been effective in bringing to light many factors of concern to Canada as a nation.

There was no serious attempt to deny that Canada's railroads needed, or would need this year, more revenue than the present freight rates would provide. But there was a strong belief that the new revenue would not be raised equitably from all Canada. The government, therefore, instituted an enquiry into the nature of our whole freight rate structure.

The debate on the freight rates has been the occasion of much searching and reviewing of Canadian history by observers. If histories are authentic, the Canadian Confederation was essential to prevent the separate British provinces from being swallowed one after another by the United States.

A look at the map of Canada shows that the natural flow of traffic for both the four Western provinces and the maritime provinces would be north and south—to and from the United States. One of the policies worked out over a period of time was a system of railways running east and west to build a united Canada. This policy has had the effect of directing traffic from both areas to the central provinces of Quebec and Ontario. All seem to agree that the burden of this national policy should be carried equally by all Canadians and the investigation by the Board of Transport Commissioners should show the best method of bringing this about, removing discrimination against the two coasts. It is to be hoped the inquiry will not take too long.

SAMUEL JOHN MOORE

A LEGENDARY FIGURE in international business was Samuel John Moore who died in Toronto yesterday. He remained virtually unknown to most fellow-Canadians during the three decades in which he revolutionized the world's accounting systems and founded the industrial empire bearing his name—Moore Corporation Ltd.

And equally unknown to most countrymen, including many close business associates, is what has been called one of the greatest of Canada's industrial romances—how a flimsy piece of carbon paper became the means of changing book-keeping methods from Montreal to Paris, New York to Shanghai.

Love of printing, learned at the case as an apprentice on the old Barrie, Ontario, Gazette during the '70's, led Moore, then in his 'teens, to Toronto—and eventually to the development and patenting of a simple counter sales book which would capture the fancy of even tough "seeing is believing" merchants like John Wanamaker of Philadelphia.

One of Moore's earliest friends was John Carter, a sales clerk at the then fashionable dry goods store of John Catto.

Carter was the originator of the idea which pyramided from a humble factory (started on $2,500 capital) to what today is known as the "Moore group," controlling manufacture of filing systems, business forms, paper boxes, commercial machinery and equipment through factories from Montreal to California. Assets of Moore Corporation Ltd., totalled $23,000,000 in 1946.

Perhaps the most striking feature of Moore Corporation was that while more than 80 percent of its interests lay in the United States its astute directing head at all times declined to leave Canada and take permanent residence in America.

While anticipating the evolution of the department store, Moore was struck with the necessity of systematizing retail selling equipment. And Carter's suggestion that a simple sales book in which a single sheet of carbon paper could be inserted between pages to give both customer and proprietor a permanent record of purchase seemed the answer. It proved a mere beginning.

Enthusiastic, Moore brought Carter's salesbook to J. L. Morrison, Toronto machinery manufacturer. With his backing, the clerk and the publisher formed a syndicate to market the patent. From that syndicate came the Carter-Crume Co. Ltd. Manufacture just kept pace with swelling orders from merchants who couldn't understand how they had ever used their "old-fashioned" systems of sales accounting—having clerks use pen and ink to copy laboriously a sales slip for each customer and account.

BURNS LAKE WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Mary Jane Patterson
Passes Away in Local Hospital

Mrs. Mary Jane Patterson, for many years a respected resident of Burns Lake, passed away Thursday evening in the Prince Rupert General Hospital where she had been a patient for the past two months. She was the mother of William Patterson, 977 Tenth Avenue East, with whom she had made her home since last fall. Funeral will take place next week at Burns Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson leaving for there in company with the remains on next Monday evening's train.

Born in Ireland 88 years ago, Mrs. Patterson came to Canada at the age of nine years and was raised in the St. Thomas district of Ontario. Her husband was killed in Ontario in 1905. In 1910 she moved from Ontario to Saskatchewan and came in 1919 from there to Burns Lake where she has since made her home.

Deceased leaves four daughters—Mrs. Hugh (Vina) McPhail and Mrs. Fred (Pearl) Cook of Sydney, Vancouver Island; Mrs. Del (Tilly) Cain, Iowa, and Mrs. Joseph (Mary) Loughheed, Southbank—and two sons—Peter Patterson of Vancouver and William Patterson of Prince Rupert.

TRIBUTE PAID SHOW PLAYERS

Tribute to the cast and leaders of the Rotary Club's minstrel show was paid last night by H. T. Lock, chairman of the committee in charge, at an after-show supper attended by cast members and friends in the Civic Centre dining room.

Still wearing their blackface make-up, the cheerful group responded enthusiastically to words of appreciation by Mr. Lock, directed at C. P. Balagano, the show's director, Miss Frances Moore, A.T.C.M., its pianist, young Gerry and Janet Taylor, whose pantomimes had made an outstanding hit, Nevill Gerard, conductor of the Prince Rupert Symphony Orchestra, whose members provided choral accompaniment and Thomas Christie, volatile "end man" of the show.

To these, Chief Lock made presentations in behalf of the Rotary Club. He also thanked the non-Rotary members of the chorus, without whom, he said, it would have been impossible to present the show.

Last night, the show played to an audience of about 500, slightly larger than on the opening night. The players went through their routines with greater ease and naturalness, based, no doubt, on the experience gained during the first night before the audience.

The performance had its third showing in the Civic Centre auditorium this afternoon, especially for school children.

SATURDAY SERMON

THE BLESSEDNESS OF KNOWING GOD

By CAPT. EARL JARRETT, Salvation Army

"Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations."—(Deut. 7:9).

This was the glorious designation Moses gave to the children of Israel concerning his God. This was what Moses wished them to know and it will be well for us to know the same—to know that our God is "the faithful God." If we are fully persuaded of this we shall have no difficulty in knowing that He "keep-eth covenant and mercy with them that love Him or with them that are willing to have His Blood shed abroad in their hearts by the Holy Ghost, so as to be able to 'keep his commandments.'

If we know He is the faithful God we need not be afraid of temptation for God is faithful and will not suffer us to be tempted above that which we are able, but will, with the temptation, also make a way of escape, that we may be able to bear it.

If we know He is the 'faithful God' we may come to Him with faith and confidence both for pardon and purity, because, 'if we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.' Further too, if we know He is the faithful God, and we fully believe it and rest upon Him 'keeping us from falling, He has promised to establish us and keep us from evil.'

In conclusion, let us sum up the whole matter with this, if the Lord our God is 'the faithful God' and we fully believe it and rest upon Him, we shall have the power that comes from living a holy life and also a useful one. Let us trust in God and His ability to do all things for us.

He is faithful. Also, because He is faithful, He is a real companion. We read in Genesis 5th
