You Can Become a SAILOR

There's something about life in the Navy that can't be found in any other organization — travel and adventure in trim new ships and the thrill of serving your country in a world-famous uniform. You're heading for an active, exciting life when you join the Royal Canadian Navy ... and you can look forward to retiring on a generous pension.

THERE ARE SPECIAL OPENINGS NOW FOR TELEGRAPHISTS

There are many careers to choose from in the R.C.N. - and few more important than in the communication branch. As a Telegraphist you will get a thorough training in a valuable trade. Your duties will include transmitting and receiving radio messages, handling messages by semaphore, flag hoisting and flashing. Naval training qualifies operators for commercial certificates. Shore station operation provides experience with commercial marine traffic. Expressed preference for ship or shore station duty will receive consideration.
